Reflections during last days in office

Ford believes a woman could be president by 1992

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford thinks a woman will be vice president and maybe president by 1992.

"I think it will happen this way," he said, feeling relaxed and prophetic three days away from departure. "I think you will have a woman nominated for vice president and she will succeed a president who will pass away in office."

"That's your prediction?" Ford was asked.

"Yes. I think that is how it (a female presidency) will first happen."

"... You mean, she will cook his last supper?"

"You said that!" said Gerald Ford, roaring with laughter. He went on to add, seriously, he thought the election of a woman president would be "too big a step" in the next 16 years.

"But I think there will be a woman nominated and elected vice president in the next four presidential elections," he said. For a moment, he seemed to backtrack on how she would become president.

Ford thinks the Republicans are more likely to put the first woman on a national ticket than the Democrats. "We came reasonably close," he said, to nominating Anne Armstrong, ambassador to Britain, for vice president last year.

"How close?"

"She was in the last three, four actively, honestly considered."

The outgoing President made these observations in a last interview Monday with The Associated Press in an Oval Office largely denuded of his personal things, his books and mementoes.

On a corner of his desk, which once belonged to John Kennedy, someone had placed several volumes of the papers of Woodrow Wilson and Alexander Hamilton. They aren't Ford's. No one knew what they were doing there unless it was thought by someone deep in the White House bureaucracy that they might make light reading for the next president.

Three large vans were pulled up outside the White House. In the residence, Betty Ford was directing the disposition of packed boxes and crates. "That one to California," she was saying. "This to Michigan. This for storage."

In the Oval Office, the 38th President puffed serenely on his pipe, taking questions large and small.

After the inaugural Thursday, the Fords head for the Bing Crosby golf tournament at Pebble Beach and then on to Palm Springs where they will live.

"Mr. President, can you tell me about your feelings here these last few days? Do you find yourself looking out at the inaugural stands?"

"No, no."

He said the pace of his work has "slowed down." What remains are "three or four things that will go up to Congress" or be his last executive orders. "The work is done on them ... So, instead of spending a lot of time planning future relations with the Congress or negotiations with foreign countries ... we are tying up tag ends."

"What do you want out of life now, Mr. President?"

"I would like to be, in the short range, a constructive private citizen in relation to government policy, domestic and international." Additionally, he said, he expects to visit a "number of campuses, from one to five days a semester," talking to and answering the questions of students and faculty.

He also plans "a book or two" about his presidency and life before that.

"As the inauguration comes only hours away, do you find that Mr. Carter's positions and yours are less distant than before the election?"

"I have refrained from being critical because he deserves, and the American people deserve, to get off on the best foot possible. Some of the statements of his appointees seem to be getting closer and closer to positions we have taken. I (read) that Burt Lance (appointed director of the Office of Management and Budget) said the Carter budget will be the Ford budget with minor modifications."

"Back in 1974, when you were six weeks in the job, I asked you how you liked it. You said, 'I love it.' Did you, as it turned out, always love it?"

"Yes. It was a tremendous challenge. I really looked forward to coming to the office every day for 2½ years ... As long as I thought I was contributing — and I did — it was stimulating."

"You never expected or wanted to be president. You became president and ran for your own election and lost. In that context, were you ever sorry you became president in the first place?"

"Not at all ... It is the greatest experience a person can have ..."

Commuter rams support, bridge falls on coaches

80 perish in Aussie train wreck

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Police estimate that more than 80 people were killed today in the wreckage of a commuter train that jumped its tracks 20 miles outside Sydney, crashed into a support stanchion for a highway overpass and brought the 45-ton bridge and several automobiles down on two crowded coaches.

Officials said 95 persons were injured, many of them critically.

After 13 bodies had been removed from the wreckage, police Supt. George Marshall said there was little chance any of those still trapped in the two coaches were alive.

"We believe there may be as many as 70 to 80 people dead in there," he said.

The train came from Mount Victoria, 50 miles northwest of Sydney, and was crowded with people bound for work in the city. The wreck occurred at 8:12 a.m.

"It's smashed like matchwood," said a man who staggered from the leading car. "We were upside down, inside out and then the carriage burst like a bloody sardine tin."

Nine hours later, cranes and other lifting equipment had been unable to move the bridge. Police said it might be Wednesday before this was accomplished and all the bodies were removed.

High-voltage power lines fell with the bridge, increasing the danger to any survivors in the wreckage and rescue workers.

Medical teams crawled into narrow spaces to operate on trapped persons as nurses and medics administered oxygen. Four operations were underway simultaneously.

"You wouldn't believe the mess in there," an exhausted doctor said.

One of the nurses, Leigh Street, was small enough to crawl into the flattened wreckage.

"I got in under the bridge but there wasn't a lot we could do," she said. "There were eight dead alongside me, many were still sitting squashed in their seats. They hadn't been able to move before the bridge fell on them."

The Rev. Michael Campion said he administered the last rites to about 20 persons in one carriage after crawling alongside the wreckage. Most of them were dead, he said.

"Some of the injured I could see were crying for help," he said. "The scene was unbelievable. It's horrible. They had no chance."

Hundreds volunteered to donate blood. Food stores sent trucks loaded with hamburgers and fried chicken to feed the rescue workers.

As dusk fell, floodlights were set up. Frantic efforts were being made to free a trapped 35-year-old man, and TV cameras brought the drama live to viewers.

Identify slaying victim as Ontarian, linked to knife death of Uplander

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

The body of a young man found shot to death Monday morning in a vacant Chino field off Second Street has been identified as Anthony Marcos Garcia, 18, of Ontario.

An autopsy revealed he was most likely shot twice in the head with a shotgun at close range about midnight Sunday.

Garcia was arrested on a murder charge two weeks ago after Joseph Anthony Adame, 18, of Upland, was stabbed to death on E. Sunkist Street in Ontario, said police.

Ontario police released Garcia after the deputy district attorney's office declined to file formal charges for lack of sufficient evidence.

Police, however, said they believed Garcia killed Adame in "self-defense."

Chino police working with Ontario police Monday linked Garcia's slaying with yet another shooting incident in Ontario Sunday night on Sultana Avenue near Nevada Street, an attempted apartment burglary in Chino early Monday morning, and a car theft in Ontario on Saturday.

Capt. Louis Moreno said police, after questioning a number of witnesses, have come up with a possible chain of events leading to Garcia's death.

He indicated, however, that further investigation is warranted to prove the theory. Police have yet to find Garcia's killer or killers. All the incidents may indirectly be linked to gang rivalry between Chino and Ontario youths, police said.

Moreno explained: On Saturday a 1964 white Chevrolet was reported stolen from 1661 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario. Sunday evening about 8:40 police received a report that an Ontario youth, identified as Darryl Casterjon, 17, had been treated at Ontario Community Hospital for a gunshot wound in the back. He was later transferred to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana where he is listed in satisfactory condition this morning.

The youth and a witness claimed that a group of other youths in a "1964 white Chevy" drove by them on Sultana Avenue near Nevada Street and fired five shots at them.

One hit Casterjon.

About two hours later, Chino police reported spotting the stolen Ontario car in downtown Chino. Officers went in pursuit, but the vehicle's three occupants fled on foot, running east towards Monte Vista Avenue.

One of the youths was observed running with a .22-caliber rifle.

He reportedly threw the rifle over a fence and it was retrieved by officers.

Still, the three occupants of the car eluded the officers. But, the officers examining the stolen car found a bullet hole in the front seat.

Then about 11 p.m. officers responded to the area of B and Second streets where residents reported hearing either firecrackers or gunshot. When officers arrived, a number of people was seen running from the field where Garcia was slain.

A search of the field in the dark at that time revealed nothing and officers left the area.

Then about midnight, Chino police apprehended a 14-year-old youth in the same area after he attempted to break into an apartment.

At 7:35 a.m. Monday, Garcia's body, nearly decapitated by two shotgun blasts, was found in the field off of Second Street.

Moreno said officers pieced together information that Garcia was seen in the stolen vehicle in Ontario earlier along with the Ontario shooting victim, Casterjon, the 14-year-old burglary suspect caught in Chino, and another man.

Moreno said officers believe that Sunday evening Casterjon was accidentally shot while riding with friends in the stolen vehicle.

The other youths dropped him off for treatment of the gunshot wound at the Ontario hospital and then drove into Chino, possibly to retaliate against Chino youths believed responsible for yet another slaying of an Ontario youth in December.

The police interrupted the youths' ride into the Chino area and they were left without transportation.

While trying to evade officers, the futitive youths wandered into the area of the Chino youth gang and were confronted. There Garcia was shot to death and the other youths may have fled for their lives, police believe.

Moreno said the 14-year-old may have attempted to break into the apartment to hide from Garcia's assailants.

Ontario and Chino police this morning said they have located the third occupant of the stolen vehicle and are questioning him about the incident. Police said the investigation continues.

Fire damages 4-unit house

By VONNE ROBERTSON

A fire which broke out shortly before 8 a.m. today caused extensive damage to a four-unit house structure at 219, 221, 223 and 225 E. Monterey Ave., Pomona.

According to fire officials, the fire started in 223 E. Monterey Ave., where Sandy L. Mattox was awakened by smoke. She called the fire department at 7:43 a.m.

The fire rapidly spread to the residences on either side of the Mattox home.

The first estimate of fire damage is $10,000 to the three involved units and heavy smoke damage to the fourth home.

Fire officials remained at the scene this morning to continue investigation into the fire which sent a pall of smoke over the city and attracted many spectators to the scene briefly on their way to work.

Firemen removed three cages of birds from 225 E. Monterey Ave. The birds appeared unaffected by their early morning experience.

Ford to pardon Tokyo Rose?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will pardon Iva Toguri D'Aquino, a Chicago shopkeeper known to millions of World War II servicemen as "Tokyo Rose," according to White House officials quoted today by the Washington Post.

Mrs. D'Aquino was one of the women who made propaganda broadcasts to American servicemen in the Pacific. She was the only one brought to trial for it.

A San Francisco jury convicted her of treason in 1949. She served 6½ years in prison, then moved to Chicago, where she operates an Oriental gift shop. She could not be reached for comment Monday night.

Mrs. D'Aquino's prosecution began shortly after the war's end, when anti-Japanese feelings ran high.

D.C. kicks off inauguration week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fireworks, folk dancing and symphony music officially open Jimmy Carter's inaugural celebration tonight. It's the start of a five-day, $3-million marathon of parties, concerts and receptions.

Carter himself hasn't arrived in town, so the festivities and the celebrants will be starting without him.

Four tons of fireworks will start exploding at 7:30 tonight on the Mall, which stretches from the Washington Monument to the Capitol.

But zero-degree temperatures are predicted, so those who want to witness the predominantly green and white display — Carter's campaign colors — will be wise to wear long johns.

Music from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony will be featured at a dual concert at the Kennedy Center by the National Symphony Orchestra and the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, starting at 7 p.m.

The American Folk Dance and Concert, a potpourri that includes Indian and Cajun music, begins at 9 p.m. at the railroad station, now known as the National Visitor's Center.

NATURE'S ART WORK

Nature makes a scene pretty-as-a-painting as the sun breaks through the fleecy clouds over the Antelope Valley near Lancaster Monday afternoon.

Teachers, districts need to increase their pension contributions?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California public school teachers and their districts need to increase pension contributions by $350 million a year to pay off a nearly $8-billion debt in the retirement account, a state official says.

That would require a 60 per cent increase in combined contributions by teachers and districts, or the equivalent of 8.75 per cent of total teacher salaries and benefits.

Such an increase in pension payments would make the system fully funded and capable of meeting all pension obligations in 40 years, Mike Thome, executive officer of the State Teachers Retirement System, said in an interview.

The system's annual report, due from the printers late this week, recommends more contributions to bring the fund up to standards set by the federal government for private industry pension plans.

It would be up to the state legislature to decide who should put up what portion of that money — the 200,000 teachers paying into the system or the districts that employ them.

"That would be a political decision," for the legislature to make, Thome said.

Currently, deductions from teachers pay checks equal 8 per cent of salary and contributions by districts equal another 6.4 per cent to raise $800 million a year. The state puts up another $144 million a year.

But that doesn't even pay the interest on the unfunded liability of future retirement benefits.

Sometime down the road, unless contributions are raised, there won't be enough money in the fund to pay full retirement benefits. This could be 40 or 50 years away, Thome said.

"Our concern is two-fold," Thome said. "One is long-range, when all benefits now promised come due, the funds to pay those benefits will not be on deposit," and, secondly, the continued increase in unfunded liability.

Asked if a year could be given when the benefits could not be paid, he said, "to compute it would be horrendously hard. It would be tremendously difficult. There's been no attempt."

The annual report shows the fund paid out $31.9 million to 70,068 retired teachers during the month of December.

Thome said the unfunded obligation increased $386 million from June 30, 1975, to the $7.8 billion figure last June 30.

Currently, the pension fund is pegged to an amount equal to 16 per cent of the total teachers payroll, which is now more than $4 billion a year. It should be 17.19 per cent just to cover normal day-to-day costs of the system, Thome said.

To pay the interest on the $8 billion fund liability requires 21.19 per cent, without making a dent on the liability amount.

Limited integration plan approved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Board of Education has approved a limited integration plan which calls for the busing of some students.

However, the board, which is under court order to desegregate city schools, Monday turned down a proposal by a citizens committee to stipulate that "there shall be no schools of one race" in the district. That proposal would have required busing about 10 per cent of the district's 600,000 students.

Instead, the board gave 4-3 approval to a motion to require that "by 1979-80, every student in the district will be participating in a significant integrated educational and instructional program."

Board member Diane Watson claimed such language left the door open to permitting some schools to retain nearly all-minority enrollments and would make the district guilty of condoning segregation.

Voting late Monday after an oftimes noisy six-hour public hearing, the board:

——Approved by 5-2 the mandatory busing of fourth through sixth-graders to specialized, integrated learning centers for a nine-week period each year. During the rest of the year, they would remain in their neighborhood schools.

——Approved 4-3 the mandatory busing of seventh through ninth-graders for nineweek periods beginning next year, and of high school students the year after.

——Voted 5-2 to exempt all kindergarten through thirdgrade students from mandatory busing.

The board's actions set policy and the matter will now be turned over to district planners to develop the specific details to meet the board action and court orders. The final plan must be approved by the Superior Court under guidelines from the state Supreme Court.

The plans approved Monday — basically followed the recommendations of the board-appointed citizens committee although in a milder form — must be approved again by the board after the planners finish their final draft.

Board President Julian Nava said he voted for the limited integration plan, fearing that more extensive busing would "produce another Inglewood, if not a Compton."

Inglewood and Comptom school dstricts are now both largely black.

The citizens committee had recommeded that no school have less than 30 per cent minority enrollment, but that was set aside by the board. Instead, the board left up to its integration planners to determine what, if any, percentage of minorities should be required.

The board's plan is said to be modeled in part after an integration plan being used in Dallas schools, under which busing is mandatory but bus trips cannot exceed 20 minutes.

Funeral set

SANGER (AP) — Funeral services are planned today for Sanger Mayor Seymour Sterling, former publisher of the Sanger Herald.

He died Saturday at age 69.

Sterling joined the weekly newspaper in 1927 as foreman of the mechanical department. He became publisher in 1937.

State briefs

Death penalty

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The legislature begins work next Monday on legislation that would give California a new death penalty law.

Assemblyman Ken Maddy, R-Fresno, chairman of the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee said Monday that his committee will conduct its first policy hearing on "review of legislation which we expect to face us in the coming session" of the legislature.

Several capital punishment bills have been introduced in the wake of the California Supreme Court's ruling last month that the state's so-called special circumstances death penalty law was unconstitutional.

Hospital costs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Medicare and Medi-Cal aren't paying their full share of California hospital costs, and the difference is being paid by other hospital patients and county taxpayers, a state report says.

The California Health Facilities Commission said in a report issued Monday that during the 12-month period ending in June 1976, Medicare and MediCal were billed for 47 per cent of the $4.6 billion in hospital services rendered statewide.

Medicare underpaid its $1.4 billion in billings by $153 million, and Medi-Cal underpaid by $87 million on billings of $798 million, the report said.

Lasky sentenced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Lasky, owner of a Los Angeles advertising firm, has been sentenced to five years in federal prison for allegedly bilking businesses all over the country through a phoney invoice scheme.

In addition to the sentence, U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Takasugi imposed a $15,000 fine Monday.

U.S. postal authorities have described the case as the most important in their crackdown on over 100 phoney billing operations based in Los Angeles. Asst. U. S. Atty. Leonard Sharenow had asked for a minimum sentence of 10 years and a $23,000 fine as a deterrent to others in the growing industry.

Laetrile charges

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Four men who face trial today on charges of smuggling Laetrile into the United States maintain the government is attempting to protect traditional cancer-treatment methods by keeping apricot-kernel extract off the market.

"Cancer in this country is now a $25-billion per year industry. More people live off cancer than die from it, even though almost 400,000 now die from it, or its so-called orthodox treatment, every year," said Robert W. Bradford, president of the Committee for Freedom of Choice in Cancer Therapy.

His statement came at a news conference less than 24 hours before U. S. District Court Judge William Enright began empaneling jurors today to hear the smuggling charges.

Herbert Hoffman, the government's prosecutor, contacted by phone, declined to respond to allegations by Bradford there is a "continuing federal conspiracy, not only to smash our organization, but to attempt to stamp out Laetrile"

Hoffman said Bradford, 15 other individuals and three Mexican firms simply are under indictment for smuggling merchandise. The trial, which is expected to last two months, is not over the merits or drawbacks of Laetrile, he said.

Dossiers shot down quickly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A plan by the Sacramento County to compile dossiers on legislators to protect them from terrorists was shot down before it ever got off the ground.

Most lawmakers responded to the idea either with amusement or indignation. And a spokesman for Sheriff Duane Lowe said Monday there never was an "official proposal," just some discussions.

"There never was a proposal," sheriff's spokesman Bill Miller said. "There was an idea placed in a quarterly report, and there had been some contact made, but it was something that never got beyond the talking stage. There was never any official proposal."

Discussion on school financing

Chaffey sets series of hearings

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

What does it all mean? That question is being asked by Chaffey Joint Union High School District administrators in regards to a recent state Supreme Court decision that will revolutionize school financing in California.

To develop a better understanding of school finance issues, the school board Monday night scheduled a series of informational hearings on the impact of the Serrano-Priest court ruling and other financing issues.

The Serrano-Priest decision recently declared the present method of financing public schools in California — namely through property taxes — as unconstitutional.

The court reasoned the present system denies children equal educational opportunity because wealthy school districts are able to spend more money on education than poor ones.

School board members showed concern over the possible ramifications of the new ruling and were interested in what effects new financing laws before the state legislation might have on the district.

Asst. Supt. Russel Dickinson came up with the suggestion for the information sessions at regular board meetings, because he felt it might give administrators, board members and the public some insight to the complicated issues and terminology used in school financing.

"In the future, you're going to see a lot of publicity on school financing," he said.

"There is going to be a lot of complicated terms thrown about in relation to Serrano-Priest . . . and I think it would be a good idea to discuss these issues at four or five upcdming board meetings."

Board members were receptive to the idea and directed the administration to proceed with the plan.

One member, Ray Sarrio, commented, "I think it would be a very good idea. The whole process of school financing is like a nightmarish dream. I wonder sometimes if the people at the state level even understand it."

Board members, John Schnepp and Martha Chapman praised the idea, Schnepp saying it would be "a benefit to the community."

Jack Carnine, acting board chairman in the absence of G. A. Chalfant, described Dickinson's proposal as a good one. "I would like to see it," he said.

Carnine suggested that the informational discussions be held towards the end of regular school board meetings so that routine business could be taken care of before turning to the issues of school financing.

He also suggested that citizens might find the information that will be presented very helpful.

School employes salary proposal

Claremont residents show lack of interest

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

A tremendous lack of interest by Claremont residents to a master contract proposal for school district classified employes was clearly evident Monday night at the Claremont school board meeting when only three persons spoke at a public hearing.

Under the Rodda Act, the public has a chance to say what they think about a contract proposal, but in Claremont the public seems apathetic.

Roger Wells, 1496 Lafayette Road, Claremont, said he had only read a summary of the proposal, but that he is concerned about the employes asking for a flat 15 per cent pay increase and a quarterly cost-of-living increase as well.

He suggested that employes look at the salary schedule and base their request to benefit the person at the bottom of the scale.

He said he feels the mean increase should be 7 to 8 per cent. "I would like to see merit increases awarded," he commented. "People should be treated as individuals."

Mrs. Janet Phares, 1585 Queens Court, said that she volunteered her time at Claremont High for six years, and that she worked with classified employes.

"There is too much to do for too few people," she said. "The majority of people are doing a tremendous job under extraordinary odds."

She said that the district shouldn't force employes to take hospitalization benefits if the employe doesn't want them.

Bob Newman, 1626 Denver Ave., said the board should be aware of the deeper financial impact of the proposed contract than salaries.

He cautioned that the proposed vacation program, if approved, would create a very heavy burden.

Newman said that if a person worked for the school district for 40 years he would be eligible under the proposed package to 22 weeks of vacation plus 15 paid holidays. He estimated that the average employes have 15 years of service, and that the district must hire a new employe for every five to take up the slack of those on vacation.

The school board will hold a special meeting next Monday night in executive session to discuss the proposed contract with the board's representative.

The board will make its initial presentation to the California School Employes Association at the board meeting Feb. 7.

ARRIVES FOR ARRAIGNMENT

Christopher J. Boyce, 23, (left) is led in the Federal Building in Los Angeles Monday for arraignment. Boyce and Andrew D. Lee were arrested by FBI agents and charged with conspiracy for allegedly selling U.S. rocket secrets to the Soviet Union, the FBI says. Lee was arrested in Mexico City on an unrelated matter and is awaiting return to the U.S.

Charged with espionage

Bail denied for SoCal pair

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men charged with conspiring to pass defense secrets to the Soviet Union remained in custody today and officials said denial of bail for the pair was for their own safety and the safety of the United States.

Christopher J. Boyce, 23, of Rancho Palos Verdes and Andrew Dalton Lee, 25, of Palos Verdes Estates, both were denied bail — Boyce in Los Angeles and Lee in Laredo, Tex., as authorities began to reveal details of how highly classified defense documents and microfilm were sold to a science attache in the Soviet embassy in Mexico City.

Boyce, a student at the University of California at Riverside and a former security clerk at TRW, Inc., in Redondo Beach, was arrested Sunday by agents of the FBI. He was charged with conspiracy to commit espionage after top-secret data from TRW's laboratories for research on space, defense and energy technology were stolen.

The FBI said Boyce passed the secrets on to Lee, who in turn passed the data to Boris Grishin in Mexico City. Lee also was charged with conspiracy to commit espionage.

Asst. U.S. Attorney Richard A. Stilz, in Los Angeles, argued against bail, saying that Boyce had information which he could convey "either voluntarily or otherwise."

Stilz did not explain the use of the word "otherwise," but federal investigators said it was understood that if Boyce were free on bail, he might be the target of a kidnaping by foreign agents. Also, Real granted a government motion to have Boyce "segregated" from other prisoners for his own protection.

It was learned that Boyce's father, Charles E. Boyce, has been director of security for McDonnell Douglas Astronautics in Huntington Beach, the missile and space division of McDonnell Douglas, the last 20 years.

However, authorties did not indicate there was any connection between the elder Boyce's job and his son's arrest and a McDonnell Douglas spokesman said to the best of his knowledge the son had never been employed by the company.

Authorities said the case was cracked almost by accident when Lee, being detained in Mexico City on an unrelated offense, was searched and investigators found what they said was evidence of a conspiracy. He was ordered held without bond and was brought to Laredo after his arrest in Mexico.

Boyce was arraigned here by U.S. Magistrate John Kronenberg and Lee arraigned before U.S. magistrate Tom Goodwin in Laredo. If convicted as charged, Boyce and Lee could be sentenced to up to life in prison or could be put to death under federal law.

World terms Gilmore execution a circus

By The Associated Press

The shots that killed murderer Gary Gilmore were heard around the world, and foreign commentators said the execution scene was obscene, grisly, circuslike and uncivilized.

Gilmore's struggle to die had been front-page news in many countries. The end produced banner headlines and interruption of radio programs for the execution report.

An "obscene charade," said Rupert Murdoch's Sun. It "fouled America's reputation as a basically civilized society," the London tabloid said.

"The grisly circus ... has been rendered the more garish and offensive because of the scale on which the American media operate," said the London Evening Standard.

"To the end there was a circuslike spectacle around the convicted murderer which was so horrible that it almost made the execution look less disgusting," said Stockholm's Svenska Dagbladet. "... Not only the laws of humanity but also the dignity of the nation demand that no more lives should be taken through executions."

"Once Gilmore's body is mutilated, his ashes strewn over the site of his crimes, the entertainment industry will begin its robbing of the corpse in books and movies," said the Frankfurter Allgemeine, one of West Germany's most influential papers.

Britain's liberal Guardian said the execution gave Gilmore an "aura of heroism" and set the stage for a big-budget epic movie.

A London Daily Express correspondent reported from the United States that the killing of Gilmore had jolted America into a new mood of "meet violence with violence."

Japanese media gave the story the most extensive coverage ever given to a foreign execution. Much of the Japanese interest centered on the execution by firing squad since Japanese executions are by hanging.

Other foreign comment:

Stockholm Dagens Nyheter: "The politicians in the U.S. Congress never took the opportunity to abolish capital punishment ... A terrible responsibility rests on the American politicians, the government and the Congress for what happened in Utah on Jan. 17, 1977."

Hamburg, West Germany, Bild-Zeitung: Gilmore would still be alive had he committed murder 15 years ago. "At that time, in the Kennedy era, only 26 per cent of the Americans were in favor of the death sentence. A touch of liberalism blew through the land of unlimited possibilities and liberties.

Bonn General-Anzeiger: "After Gilmore's execution, the hopes of many Americans sentenced to death of being spared the executioner have dropped strongly."

Copenhagen Aktuelt (Social Democratic): "The shots yesterday have done damage to the reputation of the United States around the world — and what a salute for the new president."

Copenhagen Information (independent): "The series of postponements was a sinister torment. The meaning was good, no doubt, but the result turned out to be an abominable show of the cat playing with the mouse ... Will the machinery of the death rows now start rolling?"

Leaders of the nation's major Roman Catholic, Protestant and Eastern Orthodox organizations say the execution of Gary Gilmore represents a despairing retreat into brutality.

Such "institutionalized disregard" of the worth of human life "contributes to the brutalization of our whole society," officials of the National Council of Churches said Monday in a statement.

They expressed "sorrow and alarm at this backward step for our nation."

A U.S. Catholic Conference official, Dr. Francis J. Butler, termed the execution a "profoundly disturbing event," and added:

"Reliance on the death penalty is an admission of failure rooted in a philosophy of hopelessness."

Most major denominations, Protestant and Roman Catholic, have gone on record against the death penalty.

A number of church representatives, led by William P. Thompson, president of the National Council, took part in an all-night prayer vigil outside the Utah prison where Gilmore was executed by a firing squad Monday morning.

Gilmore's organs being readied for medical use

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — In death, Gary Mark Gilmore got what he wanted with a speed denied him in life.

Within minutes of his execution by firing squad Monday morning, technicians were working on the body to preserve portions for medical use. By night, in compliance with his instructions, Gilmore's body had been cremated at a funeral home in Provo.

Family sources said the ashes would be spread by airplane over Provo, where Gilmore lived, and nearby Springville, where his girl friend Nicole Barrett lived before she was confined to a mental hospital.

Gilmore's pituitary gland, eyes, kidneys and liver were removed for possible transplant or study, said a brief statement from the University of Utah Medical Center.

But the kidneys, "because of the nature of Mr. Gilmore's death, are not medically usable for transplantation," the statement said. "At least one of them can be used for medical research."

Thus ended the ordeal for the 36-year-old killer who had coldbloodedly executed two young men, then demanded he in turn be put to death for his crimes.

He had fought all attempts to save him from death and was angered and frustrated with the dramatic last-ditch middle-of-the night events that pushed his execution 18 minutes past the scheduled time of sunrise and made him the first person executed in the United States in nearly 10 years.

In the end, however, Gilmore got his death wish. His life ended inside a high-ceilinged bunker-like building on the grounds of Utah State Prison after four steel-jacketed bullets ripped through his heart.

He did not die immediately. Dr. Serge Moore, the state medical examiner who examined Gilmore at the execution site and later performed an autopsy, said Gilmore lived for two minutes after the bullets hit.

"I couldn't tell you whether he was sensing pain. All I can tell you is that he was breathing and there were the automatic functions of the body going for two minutes," he said later.

Moore also had done an autopsy on Max Jensen, a college student Gilmore had admitted killing. Moore estimated Jensen lived longer after being shot than did Gilmore, by about one minute.

Gilmore's body was placed in a military-like body bag and taken to the University of Utah Medical Center. He was shot at 8:07 a.m. MST. By 8:50 a.m., medics were at work on the body.

Moore performed a three-hour autopsy. While the body was still en route in a mortician's station wagon, drops were put on the eyes to preserve the corneas.

The autopsy, Moore said, revealed that "Gary Gilmore was shot four times and each one of the bullets went through the heart."

He was seated in an armchair and bound with nylon straps at the shins, wrists and neck. After brief conversations with the warden, several clerics and four persons invited to the execution, Warden Samuel W. Smith read the court's order for Gilmore's death.

Eastern half of U.S. numbed in deep freeze

By Associated Press

The harshest winter in years kept a freezing grip on the Eastern half of the nation today, though a few problems eased and some industries were reopening plants. Power shortages or frigid weather kept classes shut for more than a million students, however.

The bitter weather — two inches of snow was reported in wide areas of Mississippi, a record 25 below was recorded today in Cincinnati — forced utilities to divert electricity and already scarce natural gas supplies from factories to home furnaces.

However, an easing of power troubles was reported in Michigan, and the nation's auto makers said they had reopened most of the dozen plants in Ohio, Michigan and New York whose closings Monday had idled more than 50,000 workers. They said they would reopen the others today.

General Motor Corp. added that it was closing one plant not hit Monday. The Fisher Body plant in Columbus has 4,500 workers.

In hard-hit Pennsylvania, where gas shortages Monday caused the closing of some steel-production units, utilities reported pressure up in gas pipelines where it had been dangerously low Monday. They said, however, somecustomers were still not getting enough heat.

The federal Winter Navigation Board said it is considering closing the Great Lakes to shipping because of ice. An experimental program has kept lakes ships moving for more than 2½ years.

Florida growers kept fires burning through the night to try and protect their citrus crops from temperatures in the teens.

Seventeen Amtrak trains serving Chicago were canceled, and tugs had trouble navigating the Ohio River.

The Ohio was totally frozen over at Cincinnati for the first time since 1963, and police at Covington, Ky., across the river, said they arrested four persons who attempted the dangerous task of walking across the frozen waterway.

"People shouldn't be out on the ice because they're not a boat, an icebreaker or a penguin," said Lt. William Dometrick of the Covington police.

Two Ohio River communities remained without water after pipes or pumps froze when the temperature dropped to 12 below zero. Water was off to the 2,400 persons in Chesapeake and 300 customers in Proctorville.

A four-inch snowfall was reported in Oklahoma, where schools in Tulsa and surrounding areas were closed. Snow and natural gas shortages also closed schools in Mississippi.

In Ohio, state officials estimated classes were shut down for half the state's 2.2 million public school pupils. Schools were closed for an estimated 200,000 pupils in the Indianapolis area.

It'll be a Ford budget for one-to-two years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leaders of Congress say they are eager to convert President Ford's $440 billion budget into a Jimmy Carter model. But they can't really start for about a month — that's how long it will take the incoming administration to study Ford's proposals.

And they concede the conversion can't be complete.

The budget that Ford submitted to Congress on Monday would raise government spending by $29 billion, or 7 per cent, over the current year's levels. But it would cut back some social programs with strong support in the incoming Democratic administration and Congress.

Carter and his allies on Capitol Hill agree that they will be able to draft amendments to Ford's proposals only in selected areas. There is simply not enough time for a new administration to review the workings of scores of federal agencies and prepare a whole new budget that could be put into effect by Oct. 1, when fiscal 1978 begins.

"We must remember there is a limit to what a new administration can do," House Budget Committee Chairman Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., told reporters Monday. "Much of what is in (Ford's) budget must remain and become a base of the budget adopted."

While Giaimo said he expects Congress and the Carter administration to move "toward faster economic growth and substantially different budget priorities," he predicted it would take at least one year and perhaps two for the outgoing Republican administration's budget emphasis to be reversed totally, or even substantially.

Senate Budget Committee Chairman Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Congress and the Carter administration "now have our work cut out for us."

But he said that Congress' new budget procedures provide for more orderly review of the fiscal plan and, if necessary, changes.

"More than previous first-year presidents, Mr. Carter will have an opportunity to make a substantial impact on the fiscal 1978 plan which is finally adopted," Muskie said.

Ford's budget contained recommendations for some $12 billion reductions in programs. A Carter spokesman said perhaps $3 billion of these cuts could be reconsidered by the new administration.

Ford's renewed call for an increase in the Social Security payroll tax rate is not the solution to the retirement system's financing problems, Giaimo said. Ford first made the proposal a year ago and Congress took no action.

Now it should explore the possibility of financing the non-pension aspects of Social Security from revenues other than the payroll tax, Giaimo suggested.

Fire, explosions destroy historic whaling buildings

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Explosions and fire erupted today on the historic New Bedford waterfront, damaging the Whaling Museum and a church made famous in Herman Melville's novel, "Moby Dick."

Five historic old buildings were destroyed or gutted. The blasts also blew out windows in a three-block area near the downtown sections; all the windows in the Whaling Museum were broken.

"Most of the historic spots are gone, completely gone," one police officer said.

Many of the buildings date from the 1800s. One of those destroyed was the newly renovated Macomber-Silvia House, built in 1816.

Fire Chief Manuel Almeida said the explosions apparently were caused by leaking gas. Police said they investigated reports of leaking gas one hour before the explosions, and firemen arrived just before the blast to fight a fire.

"The building was there, and then the building wasn't there," said John Correia, one of the injured fire fighters. "It knocked everybody to the ground pretty good."

Police said windows also were broken in police headquarters, one block away from the museum, the YMCA and the Seamen's Bethel.

Carter's son was tossed out of Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter's oldest son was thrown out of the Navy in 1970 after being caught smoking marijuana with classmates at a training school, a Navy spokesman said today.

Jack Carter, 29, was one of 54 students caught in the drug bust at the Navy Nuclear Power School in Idaho Falls, Idaho, the Navy said.

Columnist Jack Anderson said the young Carter accepted a general discharge, one step below an honorable discharge. The Navy spokesman said that under the Privacy Act the service could not disclose what type of discharge the young man got.

Pomona pro shop robbed

The pro shop operator of Palm Lakes Golf Course at 1300 W. Phillips Blvd. in Pomona was robbed Monday evening by a young man holding a white handkerchief over his face.

The 53-year-old victim said the robber entered shortly before 7 o'clock, drew the pistol and demanded money. After obtaining cash, he ran across the parking lot to a car and was driven away westbound in Phillips Boulevard.

Auto mechanics held up

Two auto mechanics were tied up and left lying on the floor of Rosada's Auto Service at 1512 W. Holt Ave. in Pomona during a robbery late Monday afternoon.

The men, Harvey C. Dirkx, 36, and LeRoy Fogelson, 68, were robbed by two men who entered the garage shortly after 3:30 and asked for the boss. When told he was not there, one pulled a revolver from his waistband and demanded money. He took cash from one victim's pocket and then bound them both with a piece of rubber hose. The victims were left lying on their backs on the garage floor.

Police cadet nabs suspect

A young Pomona Police Department cadet seized an 18-year-old man he said he found had broken into his car in an apartment building complex parking area Monday night.

The cadet, Reggie Stewart, said he noticed the suspect, Alvin Keith Kasko Jr., of 1324 W. Second St., Pomona, acting suspiciously in the rear of the Pasadena Street building. As he passed Kasko's station wagon parked in the garage area he said he noticed it contained a 17-year-old girl, a 7-month-old baby and his own tool box and bag of tape recordings. Stewart said he quickly checked his car and found it had been broken into and the items taken. He confronted Kasko, took him to his apartment and called police.

The girl and her baby were taken with Kasko to the police station, but were later released to her parents. Kasko was booked on suspicion of burglary.

$3,795 house burglary

Burglars broke into the home of an Ontario man in the 1300 block of S. Cypress Street Monday night and made off with $3,795 worth of television sets, stereo equipment and other items, police reported.

Police said the burglars who broke a bedroom window on the south side of the home were seen leaving the area in a white or yellow, long-bed, three-quarter ton Ford pickup truck.

No description was available of the burglars.

Murderess gets OK to attend inauguration

ATLANTA (AP) — A convicted murderess, who as a prison trusty served as Amy Carter's nurse when her father was governor of Georgia, has been given a 3½-day release from prison to attend the President-elect's inauguration.

Mary Fitzpatrick, 32, serving a life sentence on a 1970 conviction, will be accompanied to Thursday's inauguration in Washington by two members of the Atlanta Junior League. They helped her get permission from the state Board of Pardons and Paroles to make the trip, and they raised money for her expenses.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, described as a model inmate, is due for parole hearing in April.

Rockefeller bringing public life to an end

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a brief career in the office he once called "standby equipment," Nelson A. Rockefeller is ready to bid farewell to public life.

The vice president makes his farewell address to the Senate today.

When Rockefeller leaves office on Thursday, it will mark the end of an 18-year period — with one brief interruption — in which he has been a national political figure, first as governor of New York and then, after a few months in private life, as vice president.

During most of that time, the office Rockefeller wanted most was the presidency. He often said he had no desire to be No. 2, but he finally did agree to become the appointed vice president to Gerald Ford.

Rockefeller recalled in a recent interview with The Associated Press that in 1960, Richard M. Nixon had offered him the vice presidential nomination and he had turned it down.

He said he told Nixon he considered the job standby equipment "except in a time of crisis."

Why did he accept the job when Ford offered it?

"I did it because we were in a constitutional crisis and I was delighted to help, if I could, in a very small way."

BODY RECOVERED — Spanish Red Cross divers recover a body from the waters of Barcelona Harbor Monday, near the spot where a launch hauling U.S. servicemen back to their ships collided with a freighter and capsized. The death toll today rose to 30.

Death toll at 30 in capsizing

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Frogmen recovered six more bodies from Barcelona harbor today, raising the known death toll to 30 in the capsizing of a U.S. Navy launch filled with American sailors and Marines, the U.S. Navy said.

The Navy said 20 other servicemen still were unaccounted for more than 24 hours after the launch turned over in a collision with a Spanish freighter. Navy officials said earlier that 12 of the missing might not have been aboard the boat.

Spanish frogmen and a Navy underwater demolition team worked in shifts as the search continued.

More than 50 survivors swan to shore or were fished from the harbor, and about 30 of them were reported injured.

Cmdr. John Dewey, spokesman for the U.S. 6th Fleet, said that 24 bodies recovered Monday had all been identified.

Await siege of swine flu suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is girding for a lengthy siege of lawsuits and monetary claims resulting from the suspended swime flu innoculation program.

Claims totalling more than $1 million already have been made against the Public Health Service and there is an Oklahoma court suit demanding damages of nearly $1.2 million.

Neil Peterson, the Justice Department lawyer handling the swine flu cases, said nearly 1,000 persons who were vaccinated have asked for information on how to file claims.

"I expect it will take five years to settle all this," he says. "There may be as many as 5,000 claims."

Swine flu innoculations were suspended Dec. 16 when it was discovered that 242 persons among the 41 million who had had the shots suffered from a mysterious paralysis known as Guillain-Barre syndrome.

The connection between the vaccine and the paralysis is not yet clear, and the Federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has recommended a partial resumption of inoculations.

Peterson said there have been 35 actual claims filed with the health service under a law that permits citizens to obtain monetary damages when they can prove they have been wronged by a federal agency.

Among the claims, two were filed by relatives of persons who died after receiving the vaccine. One for $1.1 million is from a family in Philadelphia; the other, for $10,000, originated in Flushing, N.Y.

Peterson said federal law bars him from disclosing their identities.

Most claims come from people who say they became sick after getting the shots and missed days of work for which they ask compensation. Those claims average about $300, but go as high as $1,500.

Only a half dozen have been filed so far by people who say they were afflicted with Guillaine-Barre syndrome.

One woman asked for $9.50, the price of a blouse she said was stained by acetone used to sterilize her arm before the innoculation.

In addition, there are two lawsuits in Oklahoma, one from W.A. and Lavesta E. Parks of Tulsa; the other from Wayne Young of McAlester.

The Parks, asking damages of $1.7 million, complained variously of burning eyes, excruciating arm and shoulder pains, swollen joints and dizziness. They accused the government of negligence.

Execution postponed

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The state of Texas, which wanted Jerry Lane Jurek to die in the electric chair on Wednesday, must keep him alive for at least two months while the U.S. Supreme Court considers his appeal.

The high court on Monday gave Jurek's attorneys until Feb. 16 to submit a formal appeal and told Texas authorities to respond to it by March 3.

Had the final appeal for a stay been denied, Jurek would have been the first person executed in Texas since 1964 — and his death might have been televised.

His execution would have been only the second in the United States in almost 10 years, following Gary Gilmore's death Monday before a Utah firing squad.

In a recent interview, Jurek had said, "I know I will get a stay. I won't be executed. I'll get out of here someday."

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5499, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Supervisors don't switch meeting day

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Bowing to pressure from weekly newspapers, San Bernardino County supervisors have decided not to change their regular meeting day from Monday to Tuesday.

In a reversal of their action last week, board members voted to continue meeting on Mondays at 10 a.m.

The vote Monday was unanimous, representing a drastic change from last week when a 3-2 vote gave tentative approval to meeting on Tuesdays.

Supervisors' Chairman Robert Townsend of Chino, Joseph Kamansky of Upland and Robert Hammock of San Bernardino had favored the change last week, with Supervisors James Mayfield and Dennis Hansberger opposed to it.

Townsend had proposed meeting on Tuesday to allow supervisors more preparation time before the weekly meeting.

The idea ran into strong opposition, however, from a number of weekly papers in the desert and rural areas of the county. Spokesmen for the papers indicated they would be unable to meet Tuesday noon deadlines on county stories for their Wednesday publications.

Feeling strong pressure last week from the weekly papers, Hammock, the obvious swing vote on the issue, indicated he might change his vote. "I got sucked in on this," he noted.

Hammock did not express strong feelings one way or the other last week, and said Monday that, "Hansberger convinced me the issue could be argued either way. I'm willing to work harder on Friday and do my homework." He added the weeklies should be allowed to publish timely county news.

Townsend admitted Monday that the Tuesday meeting would "create a hardship on 20 publications in the county. I'm willing to go along with their wishes."

Kamansky, who made the original motion to change the meeting day, said he still felt the same, but apparently recognized he was in the minority. "We've had meetings on Mondays for 80 years — that doesn't mean we have to continue them for another 80 years."

"I understand the Tuesday meeting affects the weeklies in the desert and rural areas, but my feeling is that we'd have more preparation time before meetings. Supervisors and staff would have more time in considering spending the taxpayers' money."

Kamansky later responded to Hammock's comment about working harder on Fridays and possibly weekends. "That isn't the point," said Kamansky. "The point is material has been brought in by staff members at the last minute on Mondays, and we can't handle it then. These items need to be ruled on, but the stuff is thrown at us late Monday."

Townsend also had indicated earlier that staff material was being given to board members during the supervisors' meetings on Monday, and there was no chance to review it before taking action.

Mayfield, who had argued strongly that newspapers in his desert district would lose their chance to obtain timely county news, thanked board members for Monday's action.

Walnut school board

Nine priorities set for budget cuts

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

A list of nine priority budget cuts for the 1977-78 school year was adopted by the Walnut Valley school board at its regular meeting Monday evening at Walnut High School.

The tentative adoption followed a lengthy discussion of the district's secondary level physical education policy. The board, in making the tentative adoption, excluded one item from the list of priority cutbacks which would have made physical education an optional course for junior and senior students at Walnut High School.

The board was presented two priority groupings of cutbacks to be considered during upcoming budget preparations for the new year. Supt. David Brown presented one list of first category cuts which had to be adopted whether or not the revenue limit increase election passes or fails on March 8.

The school district is requesting a $75 revenue limit increase per pupil to take the place of the present $58 increase which expires at the end of the fiscal year. However, in order to balance the budget, administrators feel approximately $85 per student were needed. The board requested the $75 revenue increase with the promise of cutting back approxiamtely $166,000.

The $166,000 in cutbacks was represented by the category one cutbacks. A second list of cutbacks totaling some $337,000 is also to be considered if the revenue limit election fails. Total cutbacks could reach an estimated $503,000.

Trustee James Hannan was first to criticize the cut in physical education requirements saying that it was present board policy to require P.E. of all students. Brown told the board that the cutbacks were based on what was legal in the state and what would have the least impact on the school system as a whole. The superintendent said that recommendations from staff, teachers and students had been considered in making the priority list.

Brown said, "The cuts represent what is in my opinion a reasonable though unfortunate approach to budget expenditure reductions."

Trustee Edwin Nettel asked whether making P.E. optional in hopes students won't sign up for it might not create greater demands in other areas and end up having little beneficial effect financially.

This point was supported by trustee Richard Vind who moved that the board approve nine of the 10 priority items excluding the optional P.E. provision and requested the staff to come back with recommendations for the $30,000 which the P.E. cuts would have saved.

Vind said, "Why use that for a cutback when we aren't sure we're going to save any money in the first place? That $30,000 represents three tenths of one per cent of our budget. I think we could find areas to save that from either the category two cutbacks or areas as of yet unexplored."

The board tentatively approved reduction of the contingency account to $200,000; elimination of the mini grant program; limiting conference attendance; limiting MGM expenditures; limiting classified employe substitutes; curtailment of curriculum development activities; reduction of grounds care services; elimination of late buses and reduction of instructional field trips by 50 per cent.

Two hurt in hit-run

A 10-year-old girl and a youth were injured Sunday night in a hit-run accident at Holt Avenue and Weber Street in Pomona.

The girl, Finette Bell, of Pomona, was reported in good condition Monday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was being treated for forehead injuries.

The child was a passenger in a car driven by Andre C. Bell, 16, when it was involved in a collision with an auto driven by a motorist who fled the scene. Bell had a leg injury and was released after treatment at the hospital.

Chino kidnaping

Dancer changes plea to guilty

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A Fontana nightclub dancer has changed her plea from innocent to guilty in the December kidnaping and robbery of a Chino ranch owner, and Monday she testified against her co-defendant in West Valley Superior Court.

The woman, Glenna Gibson, and her co-defendant, Gutherie Danowski, were arrested on numerous felony charges after a ranch foreman, his wife and a friend were held hostage, and Ben Ingber, owner of the California Farms in Chino, was forced to withdraw $5,000 from a Chino bank.

Ingber also was robbed of cash and other items in his apartment.

West End Sheriff's deputies, Chino and Ontario police, learning of the plot through a suspicious Chino Valley Bank employe, surrounded the home of the Ingber's ranch hands where the hostages were being held by one of the suspects.

A lone gunman inside, identified as Danowsky by witnesses, surrendered and the hostages were freed.

Miss Gibson, daughter of one of the hostages, "Red Wilton," was arrested at the Chino police station after a gun was found in her purse.

Miss Gibson accompanied Ingber as he went into the bank to withdraw the ransom money, while the two other men involved in the plot waited outside, police said.

The two men escaped.

Monday Miss Gibson said she accompanied Danowski and the two other suspects (identified on arrest warrants as Danny Ray "Charlie" Lewis and a man named Moreno) to Ingber's ranch.

She said she thought the men were going to the ranch to steal and "later lease" one of Ingber's thoroughbred horses. She said she had seen one of the two guns believed used in the kidnaping and robbery in the hands of both Moreno and Danowsky prior to the incidents.

One of the guns was given to her after Wilton, his wife and a woman friend were taken hostage.

She said when Ingber arrived at his ranch he was confronted by Moreno and "Charlie." She said she went with Ingber and the two men to Ingber's apartment while Danowsky stayed at the ranch with the hostages.

Miss Gibson said "Charlie" asked "Ben" for his wallet and money clip containing $1,500 cash at the apartment before going to the bank.

Before testifying, Miss Gibson on the advice of her attorney, changed her plea from innocent to guilty of armed robbery, burglary, and false imprisonment on Friday. She originally was to stand trial with Danowsky on more serious charges.

Judge Clifton L. Allen, hearing the cases, accepted the plea.

Sheriff's deputies meanwhile said that Danny Ray Lewis had been arrested by San Jose police after he was allegedly caught attempting to steal parts from a diesel truck and was severely beaten by a group of truckers in San Jose.

San Jose police turned Lewis over to West End Sheriff's deputies and he is now awaiting trial on the kidnap, robbery and extortion case.

Moreno is still being sought.

The Danowsky trial continues today.

Work on racquetball club begins

Ground has been broken for construction of a racquetball club at 5515 Moreno St., Montclair, to be managed by Harold B. Wright.

To be known as Racquet Time of Montclair, the club will feature 10 championship racquetball courts, sunken whirlpools and steam and sauna baths for men and women.

It is scheduled for completion by late April or early May, Wright said.

Facilities will include an attended playroom for children, an exercise room, a pro shop, closed-circuit television, a lounge and an observation area.

Racquet Time Inc., based in Stillwater, Okla., has been in operation two years, but the Montclair facility will be its first venture in California.

Wright said free beginners' clinics, tournaments and lessons are planned. He said the club will be open 364 days a year from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

There is a 20 per cent discount available on all memberships through January, Wright said. Membership is limited because of the overwhelming response. Wright expects the club will open with a full membership.

In addition to Wright, other officers of the club are Ken Andrew, president, and John Chapman, vice president of operations. Wright has a master's degree in physical education. He and his wife, Patty, live in Alta Loma.

Montclair man's sentence date set

Matthew Hayne of Montclair, who pleaded no contest to battery charges involving a reported altercation with a Montclair police officer last February, is scheduled for sentencing Jan. 28 in the West Valley Superior Court.

He and his father-in-law, Edward Wrobel, were accused of attacking police officer Terry Belland at the Montclair police station. An argument between the officer and two men ensued when Wrobel wasn't satisfied with a police investigation of a hit-and-run accident involving his daughter, said officials.

During the alleged struggle, Belland suffered a permanent ankle injury, they added.

Hayne entered his "no contest" plea Dec. 20 before Judge Kenneth Ziebarth. He could be sentenced on the original felony charge or the misdemeanor charge.

Wrobel has been on trial for the past two weeks. The prosecution ended its case Thursday. The defendant testified that Belland attacked and beat him in the police station. He denied that he had ever "laid a hand on the officer."

Wrobel did admit he used some profanity in the argument, but but said he never threw the accident report or hit the officer.

Two poets visit elementary school

Poets Curtis Lyle and Olivia Simpson will be visiting San Jose Elementary School in Pomona to teach poetry in various classes at the school this month.

In addition to teaching duties, the poets will hold poetry workshops for San Jose teachers to explore new methods of teaching poetry.

The program is part of Poetry in the Schools, a joint project of the Arts and Humanities program of the United States Office of Education, the National Endowment for the Arts and the California Arts Council.

Phil Kligman, San Jose reading teacher and James Krusoe, southern coordinator for Poetry in the Schools, have put the program together with the support of William Graham, San Jose principal and Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) project administrator.

Bierschbach installed as S.B. Superior Court judge

Bierschbach, assigned to a San Bernardino courtroom, will hear writs of habeas corpus, small claims appeals, and serve as a trial judge four days a week.

Judge Kenneth Ziebarth has been appointed to the West Valley Superior Court to succeed Cunningham.

Milhiser to be OMS board VP

Charles Milhiser will serve as vice president of the Ontario Motor Speedway board, assisting new president Charles Cummins in 1977.

Other officers are Robert Jensen, secretary; George Mim Mack, treasurer; and Frank Colella, director.

Beetle order

The order of beetles forms the largest major group in the animal kingdom.

MICHAEL HOLDCRAFT

The Eagle Scout award will be conferred upon Michael E. Holdcraft, 15, San Dimas, during court of honor ceremonies Feb. 1, at the Glendora Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Holdcraft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Holdcraft Jr., is a member of Christ the King Lutheran Church, Walnut.

His Eagle project was to build six- by eight-foot book shelves for his church's library.

Holdcraft has been in scouting for eight years as a member of Cub Scout Pack 421 and Boy Scout Troop 421 in San Dimas, and his current troop, 497 in Glendora.

He earned the Arrow of Light, highest award in Cub Scouting. He was chosen for Order of the Arrow at last spring's camporee in Chino as an "Outstanding Scout" in his troop.

He has served as patrol leader, senior patrol leader and assistant troop leader in troop 497.

For three summer vacations, Holdcraft attended a canoeing camp in north Wisconsin with his cousin, Jim Holdcraft Jr., an Eagle Scout.

His father and uncle, Jim Holdcraft Sr., attended the camp as adult leaders.

Holdcraft served 18 months in the Boy Scout Leadership Corps. He remains active in backpacking and canoeing.

He is a sophomore at San Dimas High School and has lettered in cross-country, pole vaulting, track and basketball. He has been on the honor roll.

Holdcraft plans to continue in scouting, attend college and perhaps serve in the Navy.

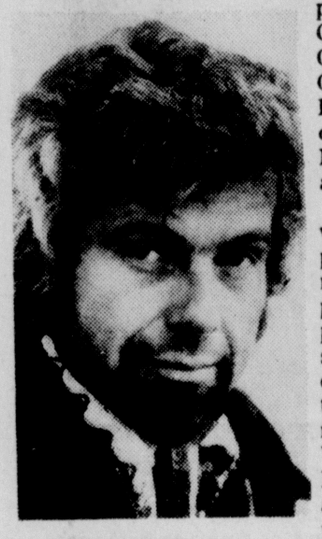
Pianist Peter Nero will present a recital in the Citrus College auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the box office each weekday from noon to 5 p.m. Tickets will also be available at the door before the concert. General admission is $5. Senior citizens, students and children under 12 are admitted for $4. The program is included in the Evenings at Eight Series.



PETER NERO

Nero will play selections from a wide range of composers including George Gershwin, Michel Le Grand, Paul Williams, Cole Porter and Richard Rodgers. He will be accompanied by Richard Nanista on electric bass and Andy Zoob on drums.

Nero has received worldwide acclaim for his performances. A Munich reviewer calls Nero "the present day emperor of the piano. His talent never stops. He has poise, charm, talent, a way with the audience and a marvelous wit." The New York Times says, "Mr. Nero is a polished, skillful and imaginative pianist with taste and a sense of humor."

'Passion' tryouts slated

Auditions for Steve Engle's "The St. Judas Passion" will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the sanctuary of the La Verne Church of the Brethren, 2425 E St.

The drama in music explores the character of Judas Iscariot. It was originally produced in 1972. Engle, director of music at the church, wrote, arranged and conducted the work. It will be presented March 25-27.

There are roles for 17 males and four females in the 20 to 30-year age range. Candidates must sing a solo and be able to execute some improvisational movement.

Further information can be obtained at 593-1364.

PAY UP! — Ed Longwill, right, as smalltime gambler Erie Smith, wins the roll of the dice from night clerk Bill Cuddy in the Cal Poly production of "Hughie." The Eugene O'Neill one-actor will be staged in the Studio Theater at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

African play back at ICCC

"Boesman and Lena," Athol Fugard's drama about unrest in Africa, has returned for a second engagement at the Inner City Cultural Center, 1308 S. New Hampshire Ave., Los Angeles.

Zakes Mokae, the South African actor who first starred in the role of Boesman on the London stage and later re-created the part at New York City's Circle in the Square Theater, again stars and directs the Inner City production. Mokae, an associate of Fugard, appeared in the playwright's first plays "No Good Friday" and "Nongogo" in addition to South African productions of "Waiting for Godot" and other major works.

Rosalind Cash plays the title role of Lena. She first came to prominence as Adele in the Negro Ensemble Company's rendition of Lonnie Elder's "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men." She reprised the role in 1970 at the Inner City Cultural Center's production of the same play to enthusiastic acclaim.

Her film, stage and television credits are extensive including, for film, "The New Centurions," "Uptown Saturday Night" and the recent release, "Monkey Hustle." Stage credits include NEC's "Song of the Lusitanian Bogey," "Daddy Goodness" and "Kongi's Harvest." Miss Cash received an Obie nomination for her role off-Broadway in "Charlie Was Here But Now He's Gone."

Ed Bernard completes cast of "Boesman and Lena." Co-founder of the Afro-American Thespians in Minneapolis, Bernard has also performed in repertory in Princeton, N.J. and Guthrie, Minn. In Guthrie, he played in the company's important productions of "Oedipus Rex" and "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men." Other stage credits include Lorraine Hansberry's "To Be Young, Gifted and Black." On screen he has appeared in "Shaft," "Five on the Black Hand Side" and "Across 110th Street." Kojak, Mannix, and a Movie of the Week are included in his television credits. Bernard can be seen regularly on the popular series Policewoman.

"Boesman and Lena" will run Wednesday through Sunday at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale now at the center box office and at Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

Ferocity is exaggerated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reports of the wolverine's ferocity are greatly exaggerated, says Dr. Maurice G. Hornocker, head of the wildlife research center at the University of Idaho.

Legend pictures the wolverine, the largest land dwelling member of the weasel family, as a ferocious predator that would tear up a camp or challenge a grizzly bear.

Hornocker says the animal harbors no malicious intent. "It's simply a question of trying to find a square meal."

Walnut homemaker now a candidate to MSAC board . . .

EVELYN R. ENGLAND

Evelyn R. England, a Walnut homemaker and college student, is a candidate to the Board of Trustees of Mt. San Antonio College.

Mrs. England, 35, says she is running for office because she wants to make sure the quality of education at MSAC maintains the current high standards. She is a respiration therapy student at the college.

The mother of three children, Mrs. England has lived in Walnut for the past six years. She is a native of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Being a full-time student at MSAC has given Mrs. England an opportunity to evaluate the standard of teaching first hand and she says she is "not at all dissatisfied" with it.

"The standards are very high and the instructors are excellent," she said. "I just want to make sure that when my children are old enough the standards will remain high."

Mrs. England is married to a Los Angeles policeman who also owns his painting contracting business. The husband, Ralph, is running for the Walnut school board.

. . . but she had no intention of running until seeing rolls

When Mrs. Evelyn R. England accompanied her husband, Ralph to the county registrar's office in Los Angeles to take out his nomination papers for the Walnut school board, she never dreamt she would return as a candidate herself.

Ralph England, a Los Angeles policeman who also doubles as a painting contractor, had long wanted to be on the school board.

Looking over the candiacy rolls at the registrar's office three weeks ago, the Englands noted that as of that time no one had filed for the two vacancies on the board of the Mt. San Antonio College District.

"Why don't you run?" England asked his wife as he accepted his papers.

"Oh, no, I can't," she replied. "I'm a student there and I think it would be a conflict of interest."

County officials assured her that there was no conflict — she was not on the college's payroll.

"In that case," she looked at the deputy behind the counter, "I'll take some of those papers, too."

That's how Mrs. England became a candidate to the MSAC board while her husband seeks a post on the Walnut school board.

The Englands are the parents of three children.

Lost piano work found

PURCHASE, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Nancy Reich recently discovered a long-lost piano work by Franz Liszt in the Manhattanville College Library here. The work, a fantasy based on Rossini's opera, "The Siege of Corinth," is called "Introduction des Variations sur une Marche du Siege de Corinth." It is dated 1830, and was written when Liszt was about 19.

Dr. Reich, an assistant professor of music at the college, said this particular work by Liszt had been published and was last mentioned in a catalog of the composer's works.

Later catalogs, including Humphrey Searle's 1954 compilation, listed about 66 doubtful or lost works by Liszt, she explained. "Since then, two mentioned by Gollerich have turned up in the United States — including this one."

Rogers elected as hospital's PR president

Lynn Rogers, director of public relations at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, has been elected president-elect of the Southern California Society of Hospital Public Relations.

Susan Piper, public relations director at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, succeeds Sally Hoff as president this year.

The organization is a professional society of more than 100 public relations practitioners in Southern California hospitals and health related agencies.

The society meets once a month at the Los Angeles Press Club.

The first meeting of the new year will be held on Friday when the speaker will be Samuel J. Tibbitts, president of the Lutheran Hospital Society of Southern California.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Rogers at 632-8715.

OIA reaches passenger mark in '76

Ontario International Airport reached a record high in passenger volume in 1976, handling 1,434,969 air travelers.

That number represents an 11.3 per cent increase over the previous annual record high of 1,289,247 established in 1975.

The record was set aginst a background of a 25-day airline strike, the introduction of new airline service by Trans World Airlines in July, and improved landing systems at Los Angeles International Airport which reduced the amount of traffic diverted to Ontario by 63 per cent.

Air cargo activity at OIA showed an annual increase of 7.5 per cent, reaching 6,268,803 pounds, short of the 6,550,343 pound record set in 1974.

Total landings and takeoffs for 1976 were tallied at 155,942, only 1.3 per cent better than the 153,958 logged in 1975.

By category, last year's flight activity was: air carrier, 30,676 (4.2 per cent decrease); alternates, 119 (63.1 per cent decrease); air taxi, 16,103 (3.4 per cent increase); military, 13,952 (16.8 per cent decrease); and general aviation, 95,092 (6.5 per cent increase).

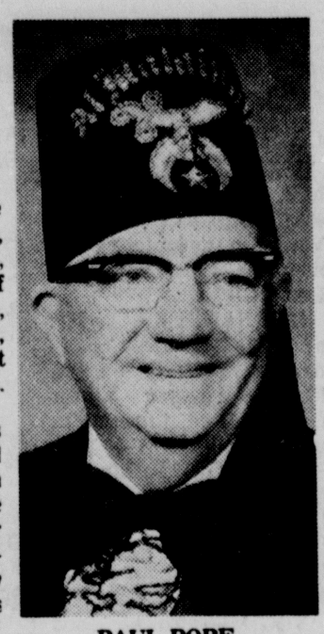
Shrine club will install officers

The Old Baldy Shrine Club, under jurisdiction of the Al Malaikah Temple, will install officers on Friday at the Ontario Elks Lodge, 1150 West Fourth St.

The program, with a dinner and dance, begins at 6:30 p.m. The installing officer will be DaveWaters.

The new officers are Paul H. Pope, president; Royer Fudge, first vice president; Al Hein, second vice president; John Cramton, third vice president; Cal McElwain, secretary and Don Cover, treasurer. The board of directors are Dale Connor, Leon Miriani, Larry Ruiz, George Wood, Ernest Caves and Wayne Hanners.

Old Baldy Shrine Club is the sponsor of the Old Baldy animals unit which participates in Temple parades and various other parades in the area, including the yearly Hollywood Santa Claus Lane Parade.



PAUL POPE

Hough to speak to church group

Charlie Hough, a Los Angeles Dodger pitcher, will be speaker at the Monclair United Methodist Church family evening on Friday at 7 p.m.

Hough has been with the Dodger organization for 11 years and with the Los Angeles club for four years. During this past season he was both a starter and relief pitcher, posting 12 wins, 8 losses, and 18 saves.

The program is sponsored by the United Methodist Men's Club. Refreshments will be served after the program.

Religion, retaliation, redevelopment, response

Pomona council takes a look at 'Four Rs'

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Religion, retaliation, redevelopment and response time by police took center stage at Pomona's City Council session which saw:

—A clergyman condemn the city's plan to adopt a prayer as going "against the grain of the American spirit."

—Another clergyman cite alleged Constitutional First Amendment violations because of the city's church building moratorium.

—An unemployed college instructor plea for retaliatory boycotts of South African goods because of that country's alleged "fascistic racial policies."

—Several citizens complain of slow police response time or none at all.

—Withdrawal of a $2,500 reward offer to capture and convict the killer of a young Pomonan.

—Approval of a $44,050 study to examine feasibility of building $80,000 and up housing in Mountain Meadows.

Rabbi Irving A. Mandel of Pomona's Temple Beth Israel set the pace for debate at Monday night's meeting when asked to deliver the council's opening prayer. Before reciting a brief prayer, Rabbi Mandel condemned city efforts to adopt an official city prayer.

"It goes against the grain of the American spirit," he said. "It would muzzle clergymen" who are asked to open each city council session and it would "become monotonous," he charged.

Mandel ended his ecclesiastical challenge to the council with an eight-word prayer:

"Father, Thy will be done through us. Amen."

Following the council session, Council member Georgia Grove said she was amazed at the negative response she, as chairman of the committee to study and select a Pomona prayer, has received from the clergy.

"At least three other ministers besides Rabbi Mandel have told me in private they are against it," she said.

Chief objection is that they believe instead of spontaneous and mostly non-sectarian prayers now recited to open council sessions, speakers would be limited to delivering the official city prayer, Mrs. Grove said. Contrarily, the same practice would be observed and the official city prayer, if adopted, would become sort of a city motto, Mrs. Grove said.

Deadline for submitting prayers to the council is Thursday.

One member of the audience challenged the advisability of adopting an official city prayer as a possible First Amendment conflict, citing separation of church and state.

Later in the session, the Rev. Francis Matthews of West Covina, who operates a fundamental Pentacostal church in a Pomona Mall store, urged councilmen to lift the four-month church building moratorium citing governmental meddling in church affairs.

Because of the ban which affects only areas zoned for commercial building, Reverend Matthews said he has not been able to construct improvements in his church.

The moratorium, adopted four months ago to combat quasi religious groups organized in commercial zones as fronts for legalized bingo games, is due to expire Thursday. But Planning Director Sanford Sorenson urged councilmen to continue the ban until his office can draft a suitable zoning plan to combat shady operators who masquerade as churchmen solely to operate bingo games.

Dave May, who said he is a member of the American Civil Liberties Union and an unemployed college instructor, urged the council to adopt a resolution urging a boycott of all South African goods sold here.

He cited South Africa's official apartheid policy as basis for the resolution. Councilmen took no action on the request.

Several citizens complained of tardy or no police response to calls. One group of 20 residents from Shadow Hills sent Mrs. Mary Lynum to the podium to complain. She said that neighborhood has been plagued with a rash of burglaries recently and calls for more police patrols of the area have fallen on deaf ears.

Councilmen promised a probe of allegations.

Mrs. Grove said after the council adjourned that a $2,500 reward put up by the city last week to promote capture and conviction of the slayer of James M. Base who was killed in an apparent holdup attempt two weeks ago, has been withdrawn.

City Atty. Patrick Sampson said the state municipal code forbids any such action by cities. Mrs. Grove said she hopes citizens or private groups will attempt to raise reward money so the offer may be reinstated.

Most debated issue of the evening was approval of a $44,050 study of Mountain Meadows redevelopment area where luxury homes would be built under a city-subsidized program.

POD, Inc., of Orange, a consulting firm, was chosen by the planning department to conduct a site study to determine how the area should be developed and lots laid out.

Such studies normally are made by developers desiring to construct homes in the area at their own expense. But, according to Mrs. Grove, cost of such studies in that area would be too expensive for individual developers and the city decided to subsidize development.

Mrs. Grove questioned selection of POD Inc. to complete the study, charging footdragging by the firm in completing another contract for the city. Sorenson said the firm has undergone a change of management which should negate further future tardiness in completing work on time.

Councilman Adrian Wright cast the lone dissenting vote, charging he asked City Manager Jerrold Gonce two months ago for a status report on the redevelopment plan for the intersection of Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard and has not received it yet.

Citizen E.J. Gaulding of 1565 Vejar St., who described himself os one of Pomona's "poor people," said the city should spend redevelopment funds in poorer sections of Pomona rather than "subsidizing housing for the rich."

Montclair says no to a moratorium on development

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Montclair councilmen refused to extend a San Bernardino County moratorium on residential development into their city Monday night.

The refusal followed a long and extensive report from Ken Topping, planning director for San Bernardino County, on action by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors which declared a halt to residential development in Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda for at least 90 days through March 20.

Topping explained that the moratorium applied to applications for residential subdivisions, land divisions, zone changes, large-scale housing developments and mobile home parks in the tri-community area. He added that development had been occurring at a rate of outstripping the services available, particularly in sewerage and waste water treatment.

The Montclair City Council appeared relatively unmoved by Topping's remarks that the county only recently became aware of such problems. Rapid growth in the unincorporated areas is also coupled with accelerated development in Chino, Upland and Ontario.

These cities and the county have been "approving development without considering the effects on each other's well-being. They were going along on the assumption that there would be adequate service in sewers. Only in the last six months did we get grumblings that there might be some capacity problems," Topping said.

Councilman Tom McClure questioned why the county approved 7,666 new lots for residential development before taking the so-called stop-gap action or considering the problem of sewers.

Councilman Ernest Rowley reported that the City of Montclair had a moratorium in the area south of the city and within the zone of influence for more than three years.

"I feel a little bit like the little boy who was held in after school because the majority of the class did something wrong. We have been cognizant all along," Rowley said. "I feel we're being punished for what the big boys have been doing. I agree with the concept but don't feel the City of Montclair can go along completely. We don't have any reason to be curtailed."

Topping said the West End of the county is the fastest growing area. An application for a federal grant for completion of additional sewer treatment plants and interceptor lines has been held up at the state level because of standards set by the California Air Resources Board. According to that board, the West End is in violation of certain standards and may face a state ban on development.

Mayor Harold Hayes pointed out that those same standards applied to Los Angeles and Orange counties have the reverse effects which allow development of hills and other natural areas. And San Bernardino County is downwind of developments there and taking the slack of pollution, he added.

Hayes recommended that a delegation of city mayors and county supervisors journey to Sacramento to "jar loose" the federal application for sewers "that the state has kept in abeyance while it meets all of the retroactive air quality standards." He also suggested that "an united effort is essential in addressing ourselves to air quality issues."

Parks are No. 1 priority in L.V.

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne is about to get some more park sites.

The City Council set the aquisition of open space for future parks as its Number One priority over the next several years — but three other projects were not very far behind.

The decision was reached Monday night after a public hearing which was called to help the council choose the priorities so it could qualify for $150,000 this year and similar amounts the next three years in federal Housing and Community Development funds.

While park site aquisition easily outdistanced other proposals, the council agreed to also develop present park sites, help the handicapped and provide assistance to senior citizens who want to rehabilitate their homes.

Mike Brodtemarkle of Urban Futures Inc., the city's consultant on the acquisition of the government funds, told the council it could expect about $145,000 or perhaps more this year, provided the priorities were within the range of the HCDA.

He said acceptable projects included those that made living conditions better for the handicapped, the elderly and the poor.

That appeared to be news to the council which was about to commit itself for the parks. Brotemarkle cautioned the council that if some of the federal priorities were not in the proposal, the request might be in trouble.

The council agreed to a request by Christina Gonzales, that ramps be constructed throughout the downtown section to allow easy access to sidewalk travel by wheelchairs.

Mendoza seeks seat on local school panel

C. J. (Cande) Mendoza, a long time Pomona resident and former Pomona teacher, counselor and principal, will seek a seat on the Pomona School Board in the March 8 board election.

Mendoza, 57, 1221 Canyon Wy. is the assistant superintendant for instructional services of the Los Nietos Elementary School District in Whittier. This is his first try for public office.

Mendoza, who between 1950 and 1965 hosted both Spanish and English language radio programs in the Pomona area said, "I believe my 30 years of experience in education will be helpful in understanding the many facets of public education.

"The $40 million-plus Pomona school budget must be administered efficiently and judiciously to serve the needs of students in Pomona."

Mendoza said the entire educational program must be better assessed.

"We must look for alternative school programs to offer students additional employable skills so they may become functional in the world of work."

Mendoza said he hopes to do more to accentuate the positive aspects of Pomona education.

"Pomona has its share of top quality young people," he said. "Often the negative is accented."

Mendoza said he feels stronger relations must be developed between the city's recreation department and the schools in providing recreational opportunities for students. He also stated, "If the district believes in neighborhood schools, a high school will eventually have to be built in Diamond Bar."

Mendoza said he had not sought a school board seat earlier because of his employment in the district. A committee to elect him to the school board will be forming in the coming weeks, he said.

Part of water expansion program

One Upland reservoir turned down

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland City Council members Monday refused to accept one of two giant water reservoirs recently completed in the city as part of a $2.5 million water expansion program.

The refused reservoir, at 17th Street and Benson Avenue, has developed extensive cracking in the roof which must be repaired to seal the top.

An independent contractor hired by the city has blamed the specifications, City Manager Lee Travers told council members.

"The specifications apparently indicated that some cracks might appear, but could be sealed," Travers said. "But so many cracks are in the roof that chiseling them out to repair them would endanger the structure."

The reservoir, an attractive 7.5-million gallon structure witn fluted sides, was designed by Engineering-Science, Inc., and built by J. Putnam Menck and Henck Pro.

Travers said that while it is possible to repair the roof using two different methods, neither the contractors nor the designer has accepted responsibility for the repairs.

City Attorney Don Maroney said the city does not have the reservoir for which it bargained.

"Instead, we have a series of birdbaths, which include everything that goes into a birdbath."

"And if we're not careful, all this could end up in the reservoir," Maroney added.

The city attorney said that the entire issue has become so complicated that the council should meet with the designers, the contractors, independent consultants and others to discuss the matter in depth.

"The contractors appear to have done what was required according to the specifications," Maroney said, "but I'm not satisfied with the answers from the structural engineer."

Among the problems, city officials say, is that either of the roof repairs suggested would be good for 10 years at the most while the reservoir should last about 70 years.

"Someone will have to accept the responsibility for repairs on an ongoing basis," Travers said.

Maroney said he feels that the contractor knows what the problem is, but refuses to comment.

Councilmember Ina Petokas said she feels that neither of the two proposed methods for sealing the reservoir may be desirable.

Travers requested that the City Council call a meeting on Jan. 31 to study the issue and determine future action.

Elimination of low spot in R.H. set

A low spot that causes flooding during winter storms in Rowland Heights will be eliminated next month by order of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The board called for bids today on the $125,000 project and set Feb. 18 for the opening of those proposals.

The project sets up construction of two storm drain lines to connect existing private drains at Miscal Street east of Ablano Avenue. The work will involve laying about 1,070 feet of main line reinforced pipe up to 54 inches in diameter.

The job is expected to be completed by the end of June, according to First District Supervisor Peter Schabarum.

Bicyclist, driver hurt in accident

A 17-year-old Pomona bicyclist and the driver of a sports car were injured Monday night in a traffic accident at Ninth Street and Chico Avenue in the Pomona area, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The bicyclist, William Crain of 11070 Roswell Avenue, Pomona, was taken to Montclair Doctors Hospital for treatment of a head laceration.

The driver of the car, Bruce Thomas Provencher, 28, of 363 E. Seventh St., Pomona, was treated by paramedics for hand cuts.

Highway patrolmen said the bicyclist, riding eastbound on Ninth Street after passing a large truck on the left, crashed head-on into the westbound car driven by Provencher.

The windshield of the sportscar shattered when the youth was tossed onto the hood by the impact.

One problem won't vanish

The exploitation of oil and gas deposits off this country's northern Atlantic Coast has long been stalled by fears of possible environmental damage.

The massive oil spill caused by the wreck of the Argo Merchant off Nantucket, which threatened New England coasts and fisheries, another spill in the Delaware River and, before that, the explosion of a tanker in Los Angeles Harbor, have certainly done nothing to calm the fears.

Paradoxically, however, these tanker accidents have provided one of the best arguments in favor of going ahead with offshore oil and gas development, asserts George H. Lawrence, president of the American Gas Association.

He cites a recent congressional study which found that most oil pollution in the ocean comes from land-based sewage runoff and from tankers bringing in imported oil, not from offshore drilling and production.

Another point frequently overlooked, he says, is that much of the proposed drilling on the Atlantic continental shelf will, it is anticipated, produce natural gas, which does not pollute water, air or land. To the extent that this clean-burning fuel is found, it will help to alleviate both air pollution in urban, high-density areas and dependence on foreign oil brought by tanker.

On the other hand, there have been some pretty spectacular pollution incidents caused by offshore drilling. The 1967 Santa Barbara blowout leaps to mind, as well as at least a couple other serious spills or platform explosions in the Gulf of Mexico in recent years.

To the extent that we drill more and more offshore wells, the chances of pollution accidents must inevitably increase, even if — on balance — the danger is less than that from tankers.

One fact that won't go away is that the country needs new sources of oil and gas, and nowhere are they more badly needed than in the Northeast. According to another study, this one by the Brookhaven National Laboratory, the Northeast's already heavy dependence on foreign petroleum will double by the end of the century if Atlantic offshore reserves are not developed.

We are, almost literally, caught between the devil and the deep blue sea.

A costly epidemic

The National Fire Protection Association reports that there were were 141,100 fires "of suspicious origin" in the United States in 1975, an increase of more than 25 per cent over 1974. Deliberately set fires cost some $634 million in property losses.

The insurance industry says the true situation is actually much worse. When such things as lost jobs, lost property tax revenues and increased insurance premiums are considered, the total arson bill may be closer to $10 billion.

Some experts believe that half of all fires officially classified as due to unknown causes should be included in the category of arson. We are, in fact, in the midst of an "arson epidemic," says the State Farm Insurance Companies.

Typical arson targets include business properties in deteriorating central-city areas, schools, churches and other public buildings. But rural areas, too, are seeing arson increases and automobiles are becoming a favored target.

Money, of course, is one big reason. The owner of a home or business or car may see defrauding an insurance company as the solution to his financial problems.

Vandalism or malicious mischief is another primary reason, with juveniles the most frequent culprits. Other motives include spite, labor troubles, racial conflicts, attempts to hide another crime such as burglary, and mental illness.

Contributing to the problem is the difficulty of proving arson. Authorities estimate that only about one to three per cent of all confirmed arson cases result in convictions. In addition, few fire or police departments are as well-trained to investigate suspected arson as they could be, and some insurance companies have been criticized for failing to pursue arson prosecutions as vigorously as they might, although both situations are improving.

Despite its mounting economic cost, however, arson is not yet generally perceived by the public to be a serious crime problem.

Thoughts

And he took with him Peter and James and John, and began to be greatly distressed and troubled. And he said to them, "My soul is very sorrowful, even to death; remain here, and watch." — Mark 14:33, 34.

"You may have the glamor of the movie queen or you may have the riches of a Texas millionaire and still not find happiness, peace, and contentment. Why? Simply because you have given attention to the body but none to the soul." — Billy Graham, American evangelist.

Success of juvenile diversion

Dear Editor:

Bob Nagey's article entitled "Federal Anticrime Funding Rapped" indicates the opinion of Supervisor Kenneth Hahn that points derogatorily to the utilization of federal funds for anti-crime programs, which he claims are "passed out each year without rhyme or reason." The report indicates that this board concern could result in the "hatchet falling on the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Project."

Unfortunately individuals like Kenneth Hahn have no knowledge of the benefit that the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Project has played in lessening crime in the Pomona Valley. In a little over two years, over 1,500 youths have been served. Of these youngsters, 50 per cent have been law violators in the past. The success rate of youngsters served in the diversion system has been greater than 80 per cent. As indicated by Dr. Laud Humphreys, a noted criminologist, over the past two years, juvenile arrests have declined in the Pomona Valley at a rate triple that of the county of Los Angeles because of the efforts of the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Project.

I must emphasize that the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Project includes the committed and diligent work of hundreds of people; it is a total community effort which includes participation from elected officials on down to the residents of the community. Before the Juvenile Diversion Project was in existence, service agencies operated with less coordination among themselves, police departments and schools utilized to a much lesser degree services of the community, and the overall effectiveness of helping predelinquent and first and second time offenders was far less than it is now. It would truly be a shame if by June 30, 1977, when the Juvenile Diversion federal grant runs out, all the progress made in the last three years would come to an end. I feel that there are many people who see the new need to have effective anti-crime programs in our community. It is essential that we now make a stand to see that programs such as the Juvenile Diversion Project remain as vital efforts in making life better for all of us in the valley.

House doorkeeper tells all

WASHINGTON — William "Fishbait" Miller, the guardian of many Washington confidences as House Doorkeeper for 24 years, has written a tell-all book. The news should send dozens of notables scurrying for the storm cellars.

The frog-throated Fishbait, who used to proclaim to the House the arrival of presidents and potentates, became one of its most colorful characters. But he lost favor in 1975 and was voted out of office.

He wasted no time brooding over the ignominy. Instead, he got together with ghostwriter Frances Spatz Leighton and began work on his memoirs. He is now hiding out in Atlanta, waiting for the roof to fall in when the book is published later this year.

Some of Fishbait's recollections are so torrid that Prentice-Hall's lawyers are still debating whether to strike out the names. But here are a few highlights that have been cleared:

— While Richard Nixon occupied the White House, he traveled up to Capitol Hill every year to lunch with key congressmen. Fishbait swears that one luncheon was "bugged" by the president. He wanted to find out what the congressmen out of his earshot were saying about him, alleges Fishbait. (The Secret Service is unaware of any such recordings, a spokesman said.)

— Fishbait even reveals the deepest secret of his idol, the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn. It was always thought that Rayburn, after a short, disastrous marriage, preferred politics to pretty women. But according to Fishbait, Rayburn was deeply in love for years with a mature, secret mistress. Every time they had a tryst in their love nest off the Capitol grounds, recalls Fishbait, Rayburn would return positively glowing.

— But the champion lovemaker, as Fishbait tells it, was the late, flamboyant Rep. Frank Boykin (D.-Ala.). His campaign motto was "Everything is made for love," and he practiced what he preached. Fishbait says Boykin was once caught by a relative in a hotel bed with two beauties. Unabashed, Boykin engaged the ladies in casual conversation as they got dressed.

— Fishbait also confides that a number of homosexual senators and congressmen led clandestine lives without detection on Capitol Hill. But apparently, their names will be removed by the lawyers.

The irrepressible Fishbait drops names on every page of the book. He tells how he served as a tipster for young Jackie Bouvier when she was a photographer-reporter for the defunct Washington Times-Herald. But he got in trouble with the man she married, then-Sen. John F. Kennedy (D.-Mass.), by introducing him in the middle of a big fundraiser. Kennedy complained that the goof brought the affair to an early climax and cost donations.

When Hubert Humphrey was vice president, he once became irritated with Fishbait for introducing him as "Gabby." Earlier, President Harry Truman invited Fishbait to the White House. The bluntspoken Truman took the occasion to berate Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Fishbait tells what he thinks of the congressmen he was obliged to please to keep his job, ranging from ex-Rep. Wayne Hays (D.-Ohio) (brutal, insulting) to ex-Rep. Frank Chelf (D.-Ky.) (a decent, kindly man).

Oh yes, we offended Fishbait terribly by reporting that he was collecting a private percentage on the sanitary napkins vended on Capitol Hill. He angrily denies it, but we stick by the story.

MITCHELL'S WOES — Ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, who selected "law and order" as the main theme of the 1968 presidential campaign, departed Washington not only with an eight-year prison sentence hanging over his head, but with a $26,093 tax debt at the Treasury.

A federal tax lien has been filed against Mitchell in both Washington and New York. The records specify that he owes the government $26,060 for 1973 and an additional $33 for 1974.

The Internal Revenue Service slapped Mitchell with an assessment in August, 1975, but couldn't collect the money. The lien was filed against him last March.

The embattled Mitchell is appealing his Watergate conviction and disputing the tax bill. Through his attorney, Plato Cacheris, the nation's former chief law enforcement officer told us the tax claim is "in dispute."

"They think they're right," Cacheris quoted him as saying, "I think I'm right."

OIL POSTSCRIPT — A United States senator played an important backstage role in the decision by some Arab states to hold down oil prices.

James Abourezk (D.-S.D.) visited the Middle East shortly after the November elections for the explicit purpose of asking Arab officials not to increase prices.

As the son of Lebanese parents, Abourezk is the only man in the Senate of Arab descent. He exerts considerable influence, therefore, among Arab leaders, most of whom he knows personally.

Paul Harvey

Stop wasting the sun!

The future sneaks up on us. Nothing recently in the news was more significant to your future than the almost overlooked Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) announcement that solar heating has arrived.

All these years we've been wasting sunlight!

Our trade balance with other nations is more unbalanced in their favor than it has ever been. Ever!

And mostly because of the higher prices we're having to pay for all that Arab oil.

And right now — mostly due to recent cold weather — our nation is using more oil than ever before. Ever!

December demand for oil was 11 percent up from the previous December.

And temperatures are still running below normal most places.

Now the GOOD news:

With the ERDA announcement it's now known that under certain conditions, solar heating is already as economical as electric heating.

And this government-sponsored study projects that within four years solar heat will cost no more than gas or oil.

And thereafter — it should cost much less.

This is an exciting evolution, accelerated by the so-called "fuel crisis." We can thank the mercenary Arabs for forcing us to do what we should have done a long time ago.

Now we are expanding our use of other energy sources:

—Nuclear energy now generates 11 percent of our nation's electricity.

—Geothermal steam now generates 1 percent.

—Windmills are already helping — and ocean currents and tides may.

—Now we are beginning as never before to harness the sun.

In this race to see which alternative or alternatives) is cheapest, may the best fuel win.

Our government is betting $290 million on solar energy, spending that much this year to accelerate research and development. As President, Jimmy Carter promises a bigger push for solar energy.

Yet — without counting on that, just utilizing the technology presently available — solar heating a new house will pay for itself with reduced fuel bills in 15 years.

The installation is the big cost — $6,000 to $12,000 for a single-family home with three bedrooms.

Understandably, presently, builders of new houses are inclined to favor gas or oil heat if only because that installation cost averages about $1,000.

But I have seen at least one innovative solar heating system which promises an installation cost of less than $3,000 — so with a little "tax relief incentive" for builders to amortize that first cost of installation, America, before you know it, will again proclaim its "Independence" from foreigners.

Just in jest

Another bastion of male supremacy has finally fallen! And if you're looking for the guilty party who brought it all about, as the French so wisely say, "Cherchez la femme."

It all started in the rarified atmosphere of the Los Angeles University Club where, for 78 years, it had been a universally accepted fact of life that men are God's chosen intelligensia and a woman's place is in the home. There the equality of the sexes finally raised its ugly head.

True, sex equality had been a threat before but in almost every instance, the old gents involved simply reacted with a lot of loud snorting and heavy breathing and that was about all there was to such intellectual rape attempts.

But this time it was different! When the loud breathing finally subsided the old fellows realized to their consternation that, due to female persistence, they had become victims of calculated seduction. In the throes of intellectual copulation they had agreed that women would be graduated summa cum laude into the sanctum sanctorum of the Los Angeles University Club.

Tony Beard ends chapter

By EARL G. WATERS

The retirement of Anthony Francis Beard, Assembly sergeant at arms for the past 20 years, closes a unique chapter of legislative history. Beard not only was the first person to hold the office on a full-time basis but, subject to election by the full Assembly each two years, he held it longer than anyone else.

He was a natural for the job. He had his "eyeteeth" cut with the legislature when, as a 6-year-old decked out in a Buster Brown outfit, he served as a Senate page. Later he was a messenger for Gov. James Rolph.

The opportunities for such experience came through his father, Joe Beard. Recruited by Gov. Hiram Johnson to guard the Capitol, he held the job for 50 years. Eventually he came to be Captain Beard, head of the State Police. For many years, with only two assistants, he was almost the entire force. Well liked by legislators, state officials and other Capitol frequenters, he was a familiar figure usually at his desk in a small corner of the rotunda.

Tony departed the Capitol scene to study at USC where he became both a star catcher and a football hero. A fullback and later a guard for Coach Howard Jones on the team with such notables as "Cotton" Warburton in the days when players went the full 60 minutes without substitutions, his greatest moment was when USC defeated Pittsburgh 35-0 in the 1932 Rose Bowl.

Few of the legislators whom he served knew of Beard's colorful post college career. In those days USC students had easy access to jobs in Hollywood. Among his classmates were John Wayne and Ward Bond. They became actors and Beard became a stuntman with them and other film greats such as Spencer Tracy. He finally gave it up for less physically demanding and bruising work as a sales executive for a steel company.

But homesickness for Sacramento and the legislative halls eventually caught up with him and he returned to the Capitol in the early 50's to take a post with the Senate under President Pro Tem Harold J. "Butch" Powers, later to become lieutenant governor. Serving as liaison between that house and the Assembly he was in the right spot in 1956 when the Assembly was looking for a new sergeant at arms.

Since that time the job of overseeing security and services for the 80 assemblymen has expanded greatly. Not only are the members on the job year around but they hold as many as 250 interim committee hearings throughout the state each year. Beard's staff of 62 record those hearings as well as perform their other duties. One of those is bringing in absent members to committee meetings and legislative sessions, by force if necessary. That he has managed this sometimes difficult chore without ruffling feathers is attested to by his long tenure. That also attests his competence and amiability.

Another duty is controlling visitors who sometimes get demonstrative. In all his years only one incident seriously disturbed the Assembly. "That was really no problem," says Beard modestly, "although it did scare the hell out of some members." That was when the Black Panthers descended upon the Assembly in session, heavily armed with loaded rifles. Beard says simply, "They came into the back of the chambers. I saw them and asked them to leave and they did. That's all there was to it."

Beard's influence has extended beyond California borders. He was instrumental in forming the National Legislative Security Conference as a branch of the National Conference of State Legislators and served as its chairman.

Although he is leaving, the name Beard, a hallmark in the Capitol since 1909, will continue there for his son, Tony Jr., has been working for the Senate for the past nine years and remains.

Ann Landers

Her garden going to pot

Dear Ann Landers: Last Summer my brother brought a plant home from college. Mother noticed a weird little thing growing in the pot alongside the big plant. It was marijuana. Some wise guy (my brother's roommate) put it there as a joke because my brother wanted nothing to do with the weed.

Mom thought it was beautiful and decided "the poor little thing" was being crowded by the big plant, so she dug it out and put it in with her petunias. It is flourishing on the patio.

I told Mom what it was, certain she would get rid of it — but I was wrong. I can't believe the woman is so flaky. "No one will know unless you tell," she insisted. As far as she is concerned it's just a pretty plant. But I'm concerned that Mom might get in trouble with the law if someone recognizes it.

Should I butt out? Please advise so we can both read your reply.—Worry Wart

Dear Wart: According to Lt. William Mahoney of the Chicago Police Department, the posession of even one marijuana plant violates the law in Illinois. (State laws vary.) So — your mother should destroy the "poor little thing" immediately.

If Mom can't summon the courage to be a "killer" she could phone the police department. They will pick up the weed and relieve her of the chore.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a young couple in our mid-20s — married two years. We love our apartment and want to stay here.

The problem: The woman who lives upstairs has a squeaky bed. The man who was living with her when we moved in was very quiet (bedwise) but he moved out a few months ago. The woman's current roommate is very noisy. We can hear every move they make. (To make matters worse she is much more active sexually with this man—usually it's every night and twice on weekends.)

My husband and I don't mind when we are alone — we just turn up the TV or radio. But when we have company it is very embarrassing. (Our living room is right beneath their bedroom.) We especially don't like it when our parents come for dinner and the evening.

What do you suggest? — Beet Red In 604

Dear B. Red: Write a note to the woman in 704 the day before your next dinner party. Don't be judgmental or insulting. Simply ask for her cooperation. You might even bring up some of the party dessert for them to enjoy with their dinner.

If this doesn't work, soundproof your living room ceiling, honey.

Dear Ann: I'm a student nurse who works in a medical center hospital. May I say a word to rude, spoiled, lazy patients and their relatives?

A hospital is not a hotel. The nurses are not waitresses or maids. They are well-trained, educated people who want to give you the best possible care.

We realize that being in the hospital is not a particularly pleasant experience — that you are frightened and in pain — but please cooperate with us so we can carry out the doctor's instructions and get you back home as soon as possible.

Most patients are nice, but the ones who aren't make our work twice as difficult — and it's plenty hard the way it is. Thanks for letting me unload, Ann. — Exhausted In N.Y.

Dear N.Y.: Glad to do it. I'll bet this one goes up on a few thousand hospital bulletin boards!

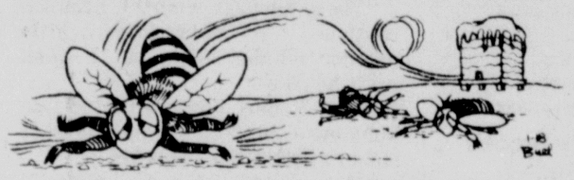
Dr. Miller

Trouble keeping bees at home



DEAR DR. MILLER: When I took over this beehive last summer, nobody told me this was going to happen. It's got me plenty upset I can tell you. What's happening is that some of my bees, instead of staying in the hive where it's warmer, take off and try to fly around when it's too cold outside. They don't get far, either. They drop to the ground and die from the cold. I'm really burned up to think I bought a bunch of dumb bees. — R.E.

DEAR R.E.: Getting mad as a hornet won't help. If your hive's a haven for bee blockheads, they've had it, perhaps. Could be though that only old-timers are launching themselves on these frosty, fatal flights — bees who wouldn't make it through the Winter anyway. Younger bees are unlikely to leave unless they've been on raunchy rations. Bees become constipated on cheap chow and may try exercise in order to solve their problems permanently. Most members of a healthy, well-fed young colony should make it through the winter.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We plan to be in Hong Kong while they're putting the finishing touches on our new motor sailer. We're really looking forward to this. I would hate to leave Peppy, our dog, home. Should we take him? — N.S.

DEAR N.S.: Peppy'd far prefer home to being holed up in Hong Kong where there are six-month quarantine restrictions.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have a cat. She is a Siamese cat. She likes everybody in our family but me. What should I do to make her like me? — K.J.

DEAR K.J.: Most importantly, you have to let her like you. That means taking time and being very, very patient. You can't force her in any way — like following her and cornering her in order to pick her up. She'll resent it. Always allow her to come and go as she wishes, and simply leave her alone much of the time so she can rest and relax. Then she's more likely, sometimes, to want to come to you, particularly if you're gentle and kind to her and if you take care of her (like being the one who serves her dinner.) Slow and easy does it. Good luck.

Children of technology

My kids think a pioneer is someone without a clothes dryer. They've been raised in a world of electrical outlets, miracle fabrics, one-size-fits-all and just-add-water.

They don't know what an alley is . . . a washer wringer . . . a piece of coal . . . a plain white T-shirt . . . a pen wiper . . . or a doily.

Some of them have never had personal contact with a basement, bus transfer, a screen door that didn't have a glass replacement, or for that matter a person who didn't have a checking account.

I never look at my children that I don't fall on my knees and say, "Thank You, God, for making these children in the 20th century where technology prevails. They would never have survived without it.

"Thank You for making doors that close automatically behind them. Otherwise large office buildings, schools and department stores would be open to all the elements.

"Thank You for drip-dry and permanent press. Without them I'd never permit my children to give their right names anywhere.

"Thank You for headphones for stereo or I'd have gone deaf long before last year.

"Thank You for electric dishwashers. It takes a lot to admit the first model made with two hands and feet didn't work out.

"How kind of You to assess their limitations and give them ovens, refrigerators, and pets that clean themselves.

"Thank You for full-length mirrors that reflect what I say, but no one will listen to.

"Thank You for 40-gallon hot-water heaters that take them through a complete shampoo without waiting for new water to heat.

"Thank You for pocket computers where they no longer have to find out so soon what I don't know.

"My gratitude for aerosol cans of pine, and lemon scents to surround gymshoes that have not left the feet in three years.

"Thank You for digital watches that eliminate a lot of teaching about which hand is before and which one is after.

"Thank You for Dial-a-Prayer for the woman who can't cope until Sunday."

In looking over modern technology, there is possibly only one thing that was missed. A dial tone on mothers that indicates, "I'm busy."

B-12 helps pernicious anemia

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 88 and have had pernicious anemia for 10 years. I take one ml. of vitamin B-12 by hypo each week. Is B-12 the only medication for pernicious anemia?

DEAR READER — Yes. You can get B-12 in your foods but a person with pernicious anemia usually doesn't absorb enough of it. To avoid the problem of losing the B-12 because it isn't absorbed, doctors give it by injection. That way it is picked up directly by the bloodstream and used by your body. There is nothing else you can take to replace the B-12.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 28 years old and I have had ulcerative colitis for four years. Even though I have the disease under control with cortisone and antibiotics I still experience almost constant heartburn. My doctor tells me to take antacids, but they offer very little relief.

Recently I read a book by a nutritionist. She claims that too little hydrochloric acid causes the same symptoms as too much; bloating, gas, heartburn. She says that taking hydrochloric acid tablets will eliminate these problems, and that antacids are the "worst" and people have been brainwashed into popping antacids.

Have you any comment on the use of hydrochloric acid in place of antacids?

DEAR READER — Yes, I do. An important principle in medicine if you want to help a patient is to treat the right thing. A leg splint won't do much for a broken arm.

If a person really had absence of hydrochloric acid in the stomach it might be important. It is usually a result of another disease problem such as pernicious anemia or cancer of the stomach. Absence of hydrochloric acid as the basic cause of illness is rare if it occurs at all. This was once a popular diagnosis and people did take hydrochloric acid but it is now considered a rare problem and treatment with hydrochloric acid is seldom indicated.

In your case your problem is undoubtedly too much hydrochloric acid. Taking more would only make your symptoms worse. It would be like running with a broken leg against your doctor's advice. The cortisone that you are taking stimulates the stomach to form increased amounts of hydrochloric acid and can cause peptic ulcers in patients needing to take it for any of a number of reasons. And you may be interested to know that one way to cause heartburn in the laboratory is to place a little hydrochloric acid in the lower esophagus through a tube. Your doctor is trying to help you but you will need to give him your full cooperation.

Your doctor may want to give you one of the atropine group of medicines — antispasmodics — that tend to block the nerve stimulation of the stomach to produce hydrochloric acid. This in addition to your antacids may give you more relief. I cannot advise you too strongly to give up that idea of taking acid pills for your condition. I urge you to follow your doctor's advice.

West's three-club opening is one of those desperation bids that match-point players like to try. Sometimes they work. On other occasions they explode in the desperado's face.

South might well have passed the takeout double and let West struggle. He would have gone down three or four, but South decided to gamble on three notrump.

West's five of diamonds was covered by dummy's 10. East played his king and returned the nine to dummy's queen.

South cashed dummy's ace of spades to guard against a possible 4-0 break. Then he led the king of clubs. West made the mistake of grabbing the ace right away, but he had some method in his eagerness. He wanted to lead the jack of hearts.

He did and South played dummy's trey. East played the 10, South won with the queen and just took the rest of the tricks by the simple expedient of cashing all the spades to squeeze West out of his guard in either diamonds or clubs.

The 11th trick at notrump was just frosting on the cake. Not bothered by a preempt, the other North-South pairs all reached four spades and either made it or went down one depending on the whole play. But 620 for making four spades was a loser against 630 for making four notrump and 660 for making five.

Two spades is the correct opening bid. You may get too high, but a one-spade opening is a trifle inadequate.

CIF Council will decide big issues

Thursday's meeting of the CIF council will be "the most important in the 62-year history of the CIF," according to CIF administrative assistant Ray Plutko.

"Nobody can remember a single meeting with so many far-reaching items on the agenda," said Plutko.

Perhaps the most important proposal to be voted on Thursday is one that would essentially equalize the number of boys' and girls' teams and would combine girls' and boys' schedules for certain sports.

Another proposal on the agenda would revamp boys' football playoffs. There would be eight divisions rather than the present four (4A, 3A, 2A and 1A), with the divisions drawn up with an eye towards geography.

The size of playoffs in most sports would be reduced by a third proposal. The representatives of the 51 leagues will vote on limiting each league to no more than two playoff teams for all sports except football and girls' and boys' basketball.

Final approval of the revamping of leagues within the Citrus Belt Area — which includes both the Citrus Belt and Arrowhead leagues — is another item on Thursday's agenda and finally, there is a proposal to raise the pay for CIF game officials.

The first of the proposals mentioned could be the most important — and is the most feared by many coaches of boys' sports.

Combined seasons

That proposal, dubbed a combined season of sports, would set up the sports seasons as follows:

Fall — Boys' football and water polo, girls' tennis and boys' and girls' volleyball.

Winter — Boys' soccer and wrestling, girls' field hockey and boys' and girls' basketball.

Spring — Boys' baseball, tennis and golf, girls' softball and girls' and boys' gymnastics and badminton.

Girls' and boys' sporting events would be held simultaneously, wherever possible — for example, in swimming and track.

Another part of the proposal is that the CIF would recognize two levels of competition (varsity and, for example, junior varsity or frosh-soph) in each sport for boys and two for girls.

It would then be up to each league whether to field teams for other levels of competition.

This proposal originated among leagues in the South Bay Area. The originators of the plan have expounded several reasons for the plan's adoption, according to Plutko: Soaring costs, the emergence of girls' athletics, the inability to acquire enough credentialed coaches and game supervisors would all be taken into account, say the proponents of the plan, and overlapping seasons could be reduced.

Perhaps the sport that would be most affected would be boys' basketball.

Insufficient facilities

A school like Ganesha High, for example, with only one gym, would probably have to reduce the number of boys' basketball teams it offers to two, according to varsity head coach Gary Fulkerson.

Currently the gym's time during the winter is divided among the varsity, junior varsity, sophomore and freshman teams. When the boys' basketball season is over, the girls' varsity and junior varsity teams use the gym.

If the seasons for girls and boys were concurrent, Ganesha could probably offer just two teams for each sex, according to Fulkerson.

"I think the whole thing is an administrative problem," said Fulkerson. "Administrators are tired of the continuous increase in the number of teams they have to oversee — each team means more scheduling and assignments of staff.

"But I think they're missing the boat on the intent of athletics. The goal is supposed to be the greatest amount of participation by the greatest number of students.

"Instead of cutting down the number bf teams," Fulkerson said, "We should build another gym. Of course, then it all gets down to money.

"The feeling I get from talking to other coaches and administrators is that (the proposal) is going to go through," said Fulkerson, but he doesn't like it.

"It'll drive a lot of people out of coaching," he said. "I'd lose two coaches, and I don't think either one of them would pick up a girls' team. They'd just quit coaching."

PURSUIT! AFC quarterback Bert Jones takes off with Rams' Jack Youngblood of NFC in hot pursuit. Youngblood is hurdling teammate Larry Brooks (90) of Rams. AFC won by 24-14 score.

Blount leads AFC bandits

SEATTLE (AP) — Mel Blount and his merciless band of bandits simply stole the show.

The Pittsburgh Steelers' cornerback intercepted two Jim Hart passes in the final period Monday night, one of them killing a National Football Conference scoring threat and the other setting up Ken Anderson's game-clinching touchdown pass, helping the American Football Conference to a 24-14 victory in the 27th Pro Bowl game.

But the bald Blount, one of eight Pittsburgh players on the AFC squad coached by Chuck Noll, was not the only Steelers player who made things miserable for Hart and robbed the NFC blind.

Linebacker Jack Lambert picked off a Hart pass intended for Minnesota rookie Sammy White in the fourth period, and safety Mike Wagner intercepted Hart again just 10 seconds later on a toss aimed at Dallas' Drew Pearson.

And Pittsburgh safety Glen Edwards intercepted a pass by NFC starting quarterback Roger Staubach, also intended for Pearson, stopping a drive late in the first period.

"It's a good feeling," said Blount, who was named the Player of the Game in a contest he once thought he would skip.

"I hurt my ankle in the first day of practice and really had my mind set on going home. I didn't want to ruin my career in one game," said Blount, the first defensive player since Kansas City's Willie Lanier in 1972 to be named the game's most valuable player.

"The guys (his Pittsburgh teammates and coaches) wanted me to hang around, especially Joe Greene," he said. "I think that was one of the reasons I stayed. I told my teammates before the game, 'I'm gonna go out and get the MVP,' and it just happened."

In all, the AFC intercepted six NFC passes, five of them off St. Louis' Hart in the second half. The six thefts were a Pro Bowl record, as was the twoteam total of seven.

"I don't know how I can smile after that performance," said Hart, who completed only six of 17 passes for 53 yards before a Pro Bowl record crowd of 63,214 in the Kingdome. "I have no excuses though. Let's forget the game."

Anderson, the pinpoint passer of the Cincinnati Bengals, hit San Diego wide receiver Charlie Joiner on a 12-yard touchdown pass in the second period, giving the AFC a 17-7 lead, then put the game out of reach with 6:47 to play, hitting Oakland's Cliff Branch on a 27yard TD strike.

The AFC built a 10-0 lead in the first period on a three-yard TD run by Buffalo's O.J. Simpson and a 31-yard field goal by Toni Linhart of Baltimore. But the NFC came to life in the second period.

Mike Thomas of Washington ran a draw play for 15 yards and a score, cutting the AFC's lead to 10-7.

The NFC cut the lead by halftime to 17-14 on a one-yard touchdown sweep by Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles. That score came two plays after Staubach hit a leaping Ron Jessie of the Rams on a 43-yard pass to the AFC one.

ABA players do belong

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago they were bouncing those red, white and blue balls in places like Memphis, Salt Lake City and San Diego. Now they're in the National Basketball Association, and they're making their presence felt.

"The ABA clubs, and the ABA players, have something to prove this season—that they belong," said Tiny Archibald of the New York Nets.

And in one-half season, they've proven it beyond a shadow of a doubt.

Six of the NBA's top 13 scorers played in the American Basketball Association last season, and another, George McGinnis of Philadelphia, made his mark in the ABA before jumping leagues two years ago.

Denver, one of the four teams absorbed intact when the ABA packed its bags last summer, is leading its division, while former ABA players are playing prominent roles on each of the other division leaders as well as a number of additional playoff contenders.

John Williamson of the Nets summed up the feelings of the ex-ABA players upon becoming members of pro basketball's establishment.

"I'm a player, a good player," he said. "I feel I'm an established pro. Maybe I don't have the name of some of the NBA players, but that just gives me a little more incentive. If that's the case, I'll just have to go out and show them what I can do."

Williamson, among others, has certainly shown them. Despite being hampered by an injured finger and playing on a team with myriad problems, he's averaging 22 points a game to rank 12th in the NBA.

Other ex-ABAers among the top scorers include Billy Knight of Indiana, who ranks third with a 25.6 average; David Thompson of Denver, fifth at 24.5; McGinnis, tied for eighth at 22.5; George Gervin of San Antonio and Dan Issel of Denver, tied for 10th at 22.4, and Ron Boone of Kansas City, 13th at 21.9.

Former ABA players also feature prominently in the other statistical categories, too.

Bobby Jones of Denver leads the NBA in field goal percentage at .588, Artis Gilmore of Chicago and Maurice Lucas of Portland are among the top five rebounders, six of the top 10 in blocked shots are ex-ABAers and Don Buse of Indiana leads the league in both blocked shots and assists.

Why are they doing so well? The extra incentive of wanting to prove themselves to NBA diehards is unqestionably the major factor, but Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard says the very instability of the ABA helped the league's players.

"There was a tremendous amount of insecurity connected with the ABA operation last year," Leonard said. "The players didn't even know if they would have jobs from one day to the next. Now that the uncertainty is over and they're in the NBA, they are a lot more relaxed—and that makes them better basketball players."

The ex-ABAers are having their effect on the team standings as well as the individual lists.

Philadelphia leads the Eastern Division, thanks largely to forwards McGinnis and Erving, who shared ABA Most Valuable Player honors in 1975. Center Caldwell Jones has also helped, although not as much as the 76ers had hoped before the season started.

The Houston Rockets and Cleveland Cavaliers, in a virtual tie for first place in the Central Division, both have pivotmen who started pro life in the ABA.

Poly cager wins honor

Jack Gamulin, Cal Poly Pomona's hot-shooting senior forward, has been named the Southern California Small College Player of the Week by the Southern California Sportscasters Association for his part in leading the Broncos to wins over Point Loma and UC Riverside.

The 6-foot-6 senior from San Pedro scored 41 points in making 19 of 29 field goal attempts and three of four foul shots in the two games. He also grabbed 14 rebounds and had three assists.

"Gamulin is just a great shooter," coach Don Hogan said. "If anything, I wish he would shoot more. He takes some long shots I would never permit anyone else to take but Jack can put them in. He is deserving of this award."

Ontario will try big climb

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Ontario High, sent to the bottom of the Hacienda League basketball standings last week by the forfeiture of three league games, will continue Wednesday its attempt to climb back to the top of the heap.

The Jaguars woke up Friday morning as co-leaders of the Hacienda League. They had won all three of their league games and were 13-2 overall.

But later that day school officials disclosed that starting guard Otis Manning had used up his high school athletic eligibility last year and thus was an ineligible player.

Ontario thus forfeited all 13 of its wins to that date and found itself at the bottom of the league standings with an 0-3 record.

But the Jags went out Friday night and beat Bonita, thereby moving into a tie with Sierra Vista for sixth and seventh places.

"We had a good, long team meeting before the game Friday," said coach Larry Larson of the Jaguars, "and decided that one player doesn't make a team.

"These kids are winners," Larson continued. "It's going to be a little tougher without Otis, but I think we'll be okay."

Guard Robert Vasquez moved into Manning's spot Friday and scored 12 points against the Bearcats.

"He made a few mistakes," Larson said of Vasquez, "but he did very well considering how little playing time he's had."

Up until Friday's game, Vasquez had played only when the Jags were well ahead of their opponents.

"Vasquez hit some key baskets when the defense sagged in on our other four players," Larson added. "He needed a little help getting the ball down the floor against the press, but our wings helped him out. Fortunately, we have two very fine wings in Mickey Donaldson and Ron Penigar."

Larson still looks for his Jaguars, now 1-3 in league play, to make the playoffs. Alta Loma (4-0) took sole possession of first place Friday by edging Walnut (3-1). Gladstone and Walnut are tied for second place.

"I think we can still be part of a tri-championship or a co-championship or something like that," said Larson. "I think we can beat Alta Loma, and I think that someone else will help us out by beating them, too. I'd sure like to win the next 10.

"I just hope we have a game on February 25," the opening night of the 2A playoffs.

Ontario will continue to try for the top of the league standings by hosting Royal Oak Wednesday at 4:45 p.m.

Wednesday's other HL games will find Gladstone at Alta Loma, Walnut at San Dimas and Bonita at Sierra Vista, all at 4:45 p.m.

Bartow is eager to battle Irish

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Bartow says he would like to watch the game on televison Sunday, but he has to work that day.

When the UCLA basketball coach was asked Monday if there were any place he'd rather be next Sunday than in South Bend, where his Bruins play Notre Dame, he replied with a grin: "Yes, in my living room."

Bartow's 12th-ranked Bruins have already been stung once this season by the Irish, as Notre Dame came away from UCLA's Pauley Pavilion with a 66-63 upset victory. That was only one of two UCLA's losses in 15 games this season, and the Bruins' first loss ever to a non-conference foe in 12-yearold Pauley.

Bartow said he was kidding about the upcoming nationally televised contest against the Irish, saying that he was in fact looking forward to it.

"It's a good game for us right now," Bartow said of the break in Pacific-8 conference play. "I think our series with Notre Dame is a good series for college basketball.

"Notre Dame is a rough, aggressive team, and it should be an exciting game."

Bartow said his main worry against the Irish is defending against their guards. UCLA guard Raymond Townsend, considered by Bartow to be his best backcourt defender, remained in a Berkeley hospital Monday having treatment for what was described as an "ulcer-related illness."

Townsend became ill Thursday when the Bruins were playing Cal at Berkeley.

"It's very, very unlikely he'll play against Notre Dame," Bartow said.

The Bruins, shocked in their Pac-8 opener by Oregon, suddenly find themselves in a logjam at the top of the conference. Washington, Oregon, Washington State and UCLA all are tied for the Pac-8 lead with 3-1 records.

"I really didn't think it would be this close," Bartow said of the conference race. "Had we gotten the Oregon win, we'd have been in awfully good shape."

UCLA is coming off victories over Cal, 84-76, and Stanford, 100-86.

"We were pleased with our northern trip," the UCLA coach remarked. "Marques (Johnson) had a great weekend, with 20 points against Cal and 27 against Stanford, and he hit 23 of his 36 field goal attempts in the two games."

Cal Poly can take all 13 players to Loyola

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Coach Don Hogan can take as many basketball players as he wishes tonight when his Cal Poly Pomona Broncos visit Loyola Marymount University.

But Hogan won't be able to Friday night when the Broncos resume CCAA action at Cal State Northridge.

All of this is an aftermath of the controversy regarding traveling player limits in Poly's 74-61 win over UC Riverside at Riverside Friday night.

UCR was upset about Hogan having 13 players dressed for the game but apparently no official protest will be filed because the whole thing was one big misunderstanding.

The conference has had a rule restricting traveling units to 12 for league games but the 1976-77 rules manual hasn't been printed as yet.

As a result, Poly assistant athletic director Herb Adams contacted CCAA commissioner Lew Comer at his home Friday and Comer, not having the conference rules in front of him, suggested Poly go by the NCAA rules.

Since the NCAA, which had once restricted traveling squads to 10 players to cut costs, currently has no restrictions, Adams gave the go-ahead to Hogan to dress all 13 players.

When contacted Monday, Comer said he would inform Poly, it can carry only 12 players the rest of the season to away CCAA games.

"The whole thing was misinterpeted," Comer said. "I am sure Poly didn't do anything deliberately."

Since tonight's game against Loyola is a nonconference contest, Hogan can take his entire team.

Hogan isn't very happy about the final verdict since it means he has to drop one player from each away game in the CCAA and money isn't a factor in traveling to Northridge or Los Angeles.

Poly, 6-8 after impressive wins over Point Loma and Riverside, will get its final chance at beating a Division 1 opponent tonight against the surprising Lions (8-6).

The tipoff at Loyola's Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on its campus in the Westchester area is 8 p.m.

"I am pleased with our team play in our past two games," Hogan said. "Our bench was really alive and the guys really contributed when they got into the game against Riverside."

As it turned out, only 10 of the 13 players present participated in the CCAA opener but the bench played a big part in the victory when forward Henry Randolph got into early foul trouble.

Loyola is coming off a rough Bay Area weekend with losses to Santa Clara and top-ranked San Francisco.

Mighty USF trimmed Loyola, 90-63, and whipped Poly, 96-68, earlier this season.

But Loyola has already won more games this year than its 7-19 record a year ago. One of its wins was an upset decision over USC.

"I'm really happy with the way we've been playing," Loyola coach Dave Benaderet said. "We're not very big. We're not overly talented and we're not great shooters.

"We've been winning because of our defense and aggressiveness. We've also gotten timely play out of all our people."

Benaderet will probably start a lineup of forwards Greg Hunter (6-6) and either Bill Neu (6-6) or David Knox (6-5), center Eric Claus (6-8) and guards Floyd Hooper (6-3) and Vince Morelli (6-5).

Poly's women host Diablos

Cal Poly Pomona's womens basketball team winds up a very successful six-game homestand tonight when it hosts Cal State L.A. at Poly Pavillion.

Then the Broncos will leave on a brief two game swing of the Bay Area, stopping at San Jose State Friday and San Francisco State Saturday afternoon.

After a heartbreaking loss to the nation's third-rated team, Cal State Fullerton, 60-59 last Wednesday night in a game which coach Darlene May described as "perhaps our best defensive effort of the year," Cal Poly's defense has since allowed only 52 points to the University of Nebraska, and 25 points in destroying UC Santa Barbara during last weekends play. The Broncos beat Nebraska Friday, 59-52, and UC Santa Barbara Saturday 72-25, holding Santa Barbara to only eight points in the second half.

"We don't know too much about San Jose, Cal State LA, or San Francisco State, although the Gators did play well in our tournament," said May, "but if our defense plays as well as it has lately, we should be all right."

Cal Poly will have to rely heavily on its defense because of two costly injuries that have crippled the Bronco's otherwise potent offense.

Forward Joan Uhl, who carries an 11.0 point per game average, fractured the fifth finger of her left hand fighting for a rebound during the second half of the Cal State Fullerton game. She will be lost for at least 18 days. Three nights later, reserve guard Jill Spencer dislocated a finger attempting a steal with just six seconds remaining in Saturday night's UCSB game. She should be ready for tonight's contest.

Filling in for Uhl was Mary Lou Stephenson. Against Nebraska, she didn't start, but did play over 25 minutes and scored 10 points with nine rebounds.

Also doing a good job in relief has been freshman Robbie Beyer, whose extremely aggressive board play has sparked the club every time she has played. She scored 12 points off the bench against UCSB.

Angels guests of Press Club

Three members of the Angels, headed by president A. E. "Red" Patterson, will be featured at Friday's dinner meeting of the Press Club of Southern California at the Prime Rib Inn, 313 N. Azusa Ave., Covina.

Patterson, pitcher John Verhoeven and season salesman Al Bine will be speaking about what to expect from the 1977 Angels.

Verhoeven, a reliever, formerly starred for La Verne College. He will talk about his experiences as a rookie in the major leagues.

Social adjustment hour is at 6:30 with dinner at 7 p.m. Reservations must be made by contacting Mary Remillard at 622-1201 by 3 p.m. Wednesday.

H. Pearson awarded 8th

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Hugh Pearson of Bakersfield, Calif., announced as the 12th place finishing driver in Sunday's Winston Western 500 at Riverside International Raceway, was elevated Monday to eighth in the standings by NASCAR scoring officials.

Crediting Pearson with finishing one more lap in the race changed the standings for Pearson and four other drivers. The official finishing order now reads:

8. Hugh Pearson (Bakersfield, Calif.), '75 Chevrolet, 114 laps, $2,450.
9. Darrell Waltrip (Franklin, Tenn.), '77 Chevrolet, 114, $2,300.
10. Eddie Bradshaw (Bakersfield, Calif.), '76 Chevelle, 114, $2,150.
11. Cecil Gordon (Horse Shoe, N.C.), '77 Chevrolet, 114, $1,950.
12. Buddy Baker (Charlotte, N.C.), '76 Ford, 113, $1,800.

The race was won by David Pearson.

Pads sell more season tickets

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The National League San Diego Padres say season ticket sales are going at a much more rapid pace than last year.

The Padres said Monday they've sold 3,751 season tickets, compared with 2,585 at this same time last year.

The team said it expects to break last year's record of 4,839 season sales prior to the home season opener April 12 against San Francisco.

Healy top pick, signs Halo pact

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels have signed pitcher Robert Healy, their top pick in the secondary phase of the winter baseball draft, the club announced.

Healy, 19, is a right-hander from Meramec Community College in St. Louis. He will be assigned to the Angels' Quad Cities team in the Midwest League, the team said Monday.

Poly completes grid staff

New Cal Poly Pomona head football coach Jim Jones has announced the appointment of five coaching assistants to round out his seven-man staff for the 1977 season.

Joining the Bronco staff on offense are runningback coach Wayne Nunnely and quarterback and receiver coach Randy Whitsitt. Bringing their expertise to the team's defense are line coach George Perry, secondary coach Chris Kincaid and assistant line coach Lowell Johnson.

The five men join a staff that already contains offensive line coach Bob Green, 36, and defensive coordinator and linebacker coach Billie Drake, 26, who were announced last week.

"I feel I have a very enthusiastic and personable staff of assistants," said Jones. "They can relate to college-age athletes very well. The staff is very unique in that the coaches bring backgrounds from UCLA, the University of Washington and University of Nevada-Las Vegas."

Nunnely, 25, is no stranger to Southern California. He is a former star fullback at Monrovia High School and Citrus College. He also won all-league and All-CIF (California Interscholastic Federation) recognition as a defensive end at Monrovia. He later played alongside current Washington Redskins runningback Mike Thomas at Nevada-Las Vegas, where Nunnely was a two-year starter at fullback.

Nunnely, who is single and lives in Monrovia, helped coach the backs at Las Vegas this past season.

Whitsitt, 29, was a junior college All-American receiver while playing at Santa Monica City College. He led the Metropolitan Conference there in 1967, with 56 receptions. He finished his playing career and was graduated from Cal State Northridge and began his coaching career at College of the Canyons, where he served as an assistant for three years prior to joining the staff at Glendale College, where he coordinated the passing game last season. Whitsitt and his wife Barbara reside in Burbank.

Perry, 25 and single, coached the junior varsity team and the varsity defensive line at the University of Washington in 1976, and prior to that he coached quarterbacks at his high school alma mater, Davis High in Yakima, Wa. He was a quaterback star himself, playing for Whitworth College of Spokane, Wa., where for a while during his senior year (1974) he led the nation's NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics) quarterback in passing statistics.

Kincaid, 28 and single, has coached at several schools in Southern California, most recently working with the secondary at UCLA, also aiding the Bruins in recruiting and team analysis. The Cal State Northridge graduate began his coaching career at Culver City High, where he coached offensive receivers and the defensive secondary in 1971. The following year he went to College of the Canyons, where he was in charge of the secondary once again. He was defensive coordinator at St. Bernard's High School in Playa del Rey in 1974 and 1975.

Johnson is the lone holdover from the Poly coaching staff led by Andy Vinci. Johnson, a physical education instructor and coach at Alhambra High School, will continue to work with the defensive line, as he had done last year. He brings head coaching experience with him, having served as head mentor of the Alhambra team in 1973 and 1974. Johnson, his wife Betty, and their eight-year-old daughter reside in La Habra.

Damien tops Upland, 5-1

Damien High ran its SAL soccer record to 4-0 Monday with a 5-1 victory at Upland.

Pat Fahey led the Spartans with two unassisted goals scored with his head. Upland got only one shot on goal and Vladmir Fernandez made the most of that one by scoring the Highlanders' only goal.

Damien is now 10-2-1 overall and will host Pomona Wednesday afternoon. Upland is 0-3-1 in league play.

Klein, Verdon climb higher in PB derby

The valley's top three prep basketball scorers retained their positions in this week's Progress Bulletin Scoring Derby, but Mark Klein of San Dimas High jumped from sixth place to fourth and James Verdon of Ganesha went from eighth to fifth.

Damien's Bill Duffy, Lutheran's Gregg Guenther and Walnut's Jeff Davis still lead the pack with averages of 21.5, 19.8 and 19.5, respectively.

Klein is next at 17.9 and Verdon is fifth at 17.0. Both are juniors and, along with No. 10 Doug Vind of Walnut, are the only non-seniors among the top 10.

Davis and Vind make Walnut the only valley school with two players among the leaders.

Things are rough for Indiana cagers

By Associated Press

Bobby Knight, were you listening when Abe Lemons, Texas' wisecracking basketball coach, said he would rather be a football coach because that way you can only lose 11 games a year?

In five previous seasons at Indiana, Knight's record was 125-20, with a glittering 63-1 mark over the last two years and the 1976 national championship. In those five seasons, Indiana's football team played only 55 games and lost 41.

But things have changed at Indiana. The football team is improving, while troubled times have beset Knight's basketball team. Unheralded Michigan State, only 5-8, was the latest team to turn on the Hoosiers, edging them 61-60 Monday night—at Bloomington, Ind. no less—on two free throws by Edgar Wilson with nine seconds left.

"I wasn't thinking about the crowd," said Wilson. "I was thinking about the ball going in. I had missed a couple of free throws earlier, but I went up there with a lot of confidence and they just went in."

Then Wilson delivered the unkindest cut of all.

"Indiana's just like we are," he said. "We're both rebuilding."

The setback dropped Indiana's record to 8-6. One more defeat would mark the first time Knight's teams ever has lost more games than the football team.

Meanwhile, 18th-ranked Memphis State also lost Monday night, bowing 89-82 to Georgia Tech.

However, second-ranked Kentucky posted a 73-71 Southeastern Conference victory over Florida and sixth-rated Michigan whipped Iowa 99-75.

Although Wilson's free throws proved decisive against Indiana, Robert Chapman and Greg Kelser paced Michigan State with 21 and 20 points, respectively. Chapman, held to six points in the first half, sparked a comeback after Indiana built a 10-point lead early in the second half.

Indiana missed three of its last four free throws and turned the ball over on a traveling violation with 30 seconds left. Freshman Mike Woodson topped the Hoosiers with 26 points, but All-American center Kent Benson was held to 11.

"I think Michigan State did an excellent job of doing what they wanted to and keeping us from getting it inside to Benson," Knight said. "We were never able to stick it in from the outside and we weren't able to get it inside the way they jammed it up. We had opportunities, but we didn't take advantage of them and they did."

Kentucky needed two free throws by freshman Jay Shidler with four seconds left to edge Florida in the Gators' cozy snake pit gym. Shidler converted his free throws after intercepting an inbounds pass and being fouled by Don Bostic. Kentucky, 11-2 over-all, was paced by Jack Givens' 19 points.

Bostic's layup had put Florida ahead 71-69 with 50 seconds left, but Larry Johnson's jump shot tied it with 32 seconds to go.

"I didn't think the game would ever end," sighed Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "Alligator Alley is the toughest place to play in the conference."

Michigan, 11-1, gained a share of the Big Ten lead by routing Iowa behind Rickey Green's 33 points. The Wolverines shot 59.4 per cent. Iowa played without Bruce King, its leading scorer.

Michigan and Purdue, the Big Ten leaders, meet Thursday night at Ann Arbor.

"This was our best performance, as a whole game, so far this season," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "We dominated the game. We were doing everything right. We hit the open man and he hit the basket. You really look good when you can do that. One thing a lot of people overlook about us is our defense. It was very good tonight.

Tico Brown scored 31 points and Lenny Horton came off the bench and scored 27 as Georgia Tech snapped Memphis State's eight-game winning streak.

In other SEC games, Ernie Grunfeld scored 27 points and Mike Jackson added 23 in Tennessee's 86-72 triumph over Mississippi, Stan Pietkiewicz' 22 points led Auburn past Vanderbilt 74-69 and freshman Durand Macklin scored 29 points and grabbed 16 rebounds in Louisiana State's 97-77 rout of Georgia.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference, Tate Armstrong scored five overtime points and Mike Gminski added four as Duke beat Virginia 82-74. Armstrong finished with 33 points and Gminski had 20.

Elsewhere, Anthony Roberts, the nation's No. 2 scorer, sat out more than 14 minutes but still scored 29 points on 13-for-16 shooting as Oral Roberts downed Virginia Tech 77-70.

Sports briefs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Washington center James Edwards was named Pacific-8 basketball player of the week Monday for 26-point performances against Oregon and Oregon State over the weekend.

Edwards also grabbed a total of 19 rebounds, and he played a major part in keeping the Huskies in a four-way tie for first place.

He took the Huskies within four points of upsetting Oregon, which won 72-68 in overtime. Against OSU he scored 18 points to give the Huskies a 14-point halftime lead, then added eight more points and snagged a total of 12 rebounds as the Huskies won 90-76.

Other nominees included Stanford center Jeff McHugh, who scored 36 points against Southern California and UCLA, and OSU forward Don Smith, who scored 28 points against Washington and WSU.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — San Jose State guard Ken Mickey, who paced the Spartans to a pair of victories in their latest games, has been named Pacific Coast Athletic Association Player of the Week.

His 17 assists against Illinois State was a conference record, and he topped another PCAA mark against Pacific when he hit 12 consecutive free throws.

If you'd lived during the days of bold pirates, you would have run the other way if you heard that Blackbeard was coming.

He was a cruel, bloodthirsty pirate from England. His real name was Edward Teach. He became known as Blackbeard because he had a long, black beard, which he wore in braids to make himself look fierce.

In his pirate ship, the Queen Ann's Revenge, Blackbeard and his murderous crew sailed up and down the coasts of Carolina and Virginia between 1716 and 1718. He ruthlessly attacked merchant ships and stole their cargoes.

He carried a belt full of pistols and made himself look even more ferocious by sticking long, lighted matches in his beard.

Blackbeard created so much terror that a governor sent his men to put an end to his piracy. Blackbeard was finally caught off the coast of North Carolina and, after a hard fight, was shot dead.

Anthony Eden buried under a beech tree

ALVEDISTON, England (AP) — Former Prime Minister Anthony Eden was buried Monday under a beech tree in the English countryside he loved.

Eden served as Britain's World War II foreign secretary and prime minister during the 1956 Suez crisis. He died Friday at his country home in rural Wiltshire southwest of London, after falling ill on vacation in Florida. He was 79.

Eden was buried in the little graveyard around the 13th-century Church of St. Mary in Alvediston. He and his family moved to the village 11 years ago. Eden said before he died that he wanted to be buried in the rolling Wiltshire hills.

The 20-minute service was attended by only about 30 family members and close friends. The church bells tolled somberly as the cortege traveled the quarter-mile from Eden's home across the hills to the church.

Eden and his second wife, Clarissa, regularly worshipped at St. Mary's, which his family decked with flowers for the funeral.

A profusion of wreaths added to the color. Among them was one from Lady Clementine Churchill, widow of Sir Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime premier whom Eden succeeded in 1955.

It said simply: "For Anthony, in gratitude for all you did for England and in memory of bonds of comradeship in peace and war that link our families."

Another wreath came from veteran U.S. diplomat W. Averell Harriman, at whose Florida home Eden was staying when he fell ill. That wreath bore the inscription: "For Anthony, a trusted colleague and a lifelong friend."

Mexico's oil reserves 1/3 that of U.S. total

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico has announced it has proven oil reserves of 11 billion barrels, about one-third the total of the United States.

The figure was revealed by Hector R. Lara Sosa, a chemical engineer and deputy director of industrial production for the state-owned oil monopoly Petroleos Mexicanos (Pemex).

"The current administration has decided that the Mexican Petroleum Institute, in collaboration with a specialized firm ..., will certify the figure of 11 billion barrels that Petroleos Mexicanos has noted," Lara Sosa said in a speech that was distributed in Mexico City by Pemex.

Lara Sosa did not name the firm.

In March 1976, Mexican officials said proven reserves were 7 billion barrels but said that new fields in the southern states of Tabasco and Chiapas have boosted its estimates of the possible reserves to between 30 billion and 60 billion barrels. Other estimates have ranged from 6.3 billion barrels to a 75 billion barrels.

The United States had proven reserves of about 33 billion barrels and Saudi Arabia, the largest producer outside of the Communist bloc, had more than 148 billion barrels of proven reserves at the beginning of 1976, according to industry estimates.

Lara Sosa said Pemex has set a goal of producing 2.243 million barrels of crude oil daily by 1982, compared with this year's estimated production of 953,000 barrels. He said Mexico expects to have 1.1 million barrels daily left over for export by 1982, after satisfying the country's needs.

He said the 1982 goal is $41.4 billion in oil production, with $21.4 billion in exports of crude, refined oil and petrochemical products.

Pemex reported last summer that petroleum exports went up from near zero in 1973 to $450 million in 1975. Production rose during that time from 500,000 barrels to 800,000 barrels a day.

350 await execution in 20 states

By The Associated Press

New death penalty laws were passed in 30 states after a U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1972 invalidated most of the capital punishment statutes then on the books.

The new laws in 10 states have been declared unconstitutional or have not been enforced because of fears they are unconstitutional.

In 20 states, including Utah, the new laws have withstood court challenges or have not been tested for constitutionality.

The laws in three states — Florida, Georgia and Texas — have been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Now awaiting execution in the 20 states with valid or untested death penalty laws are about 350 persons, including five women. About 40 per cent of the death row inmates are black.

Economists don't see any relief for shoppers in 1977

WASHINGTON (AP) — It should be easier to find a job this year, but shoppers won't get any relief from the current pace of rising prices, according to economic projections in President Ford's budget Monday.

The projections indicate that the economy is expected to generate from 2 million to 2.5 million new jobs this year, cutting the number of jobless by about 250,000 to just over 7 million.

This is based on Ford's predicted 7.3 per cent unemployment rate for this year, down from last year's average of 7.7 per cent and last month's 7.9 per cent.

Inflation will take its toll. Goods and services that now cost $100 are expected to cost $105.30 a year from now.

Those projections would be likely to change if Congress passes President-elect Carter's proposed $30-billion, two-year package of tax cuts and job programs. But even Carter's economists don't expect the changes this year to be dramatic.

The growth in job creation charted by the Ford administration is based on its expectation of an average unemployment rate of 7.3 per cent for this year, assuming the number of people seeking work grows by about the same 2.2 million as last year.

On inflation, the administration outlook was for prices to rise 5.3 per cent over the next 12 months. That's up from the 4.8 per cent registered in the previous 12 months and the annual rate of 4.3 per cent in the most recent three months.

This time last year the Ford administration was right on the money for two of its three key predictions.

It predicted precisely the 6.2 per cent increase expected for the year in the volume of all goods and services produced in the economy. And the Ford economists were on target with their 7.7 per cent estimate for the average unemployment rate.

The administration overestimated the pace of inflation for last year at 5.9 per cent rather than the 4.8 per cent expected to be recorded when December's consumer price report is in.

More generally, the administration erred — along with most economists — in its expectation of a steady, gradual improvement rather than the erratic profile the economy actually followed. The robust economy of spring faded in the summer and fall, only to revive again this winter.

An illustration of where they went wrong is the fact that unemployment now is 7.9 per cent instead of below 7 per cent, as the administration had forecast earlier this year.

Over the long term, the Ford's new projections for this year are for a continuation of the gradual recovery the President had targeted. It would be here that any marked differences from any Carter projections would emerge.

On Gross National Product, which is the total output of goods and services in the economy, the new Ford budget forecasts a growth rate of 5.2 per cent in volume this year, 5.1 per cent next year, 5.9 per cent in 1979, then tapering off to close to the long-term historical growth rate of 3.8 per cent in 1981.
